I hear that we are going to have a new horse barn on our second most important business street.

In traveling aren't you impressed when you come to a clean town which has nice wide shady streets which make it easier for you to park if you want to stop there, or accelerate your travel if you are going on through. It doesn't help the town if you remember it as the place where you lost 20 minutes driving time because it was so crowded.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has announced that there will be no acreage allotments and no marketing quotas on 1953-crop wheat.

Free Movies To Be Shown In Highlands

Gardeners and farmers will be especially interested in seeing one of the full color movies to be shown Thursday evening, at 8 p. m., in the museum building of the Highlands Biological station. The movie, "Soil Structure—Key to Productivity", tells a complete story about Krillum, the sensational soil conditioner developed by the Monsanto Chemical company.

All types of audiences throughout the country have found this film interesting and educational. Dr. Thelma Howell, executive director of the Biological Laboratory, said.

Those who have followed the development of the Ecusta Paper company, Brevard, and who have been watching the shift of the manufacture of cigarette paper to the United States, will want to see the second movie to be shown, "The New Tobacco-land", produced by Louis de Rochemont, who produced "The March of Time", "The House on 92nd Street", and "Boomerang". The film is presented by Liggett and Myers Tobacco company. The movie tells the story of tobacco from seed to smoker. Scenes of Western North Carolina and the Ecusta Paper company make the film of interest to audiences of the Highlands area.

There will be no charge, and the public is invited to attend the showing of these movies.

Entomologists at N. C. State college remind farmers that all insecticides contain poison — otherwise they would be of no value in killing insects. Users of insecticides should study carefully the directions on the container and follow all of the precautions listed by the manufacturer.

Nation's Military Death Total Passes Million-Mark, But Auto More Potent Killer Than War

The nation's military deaths in all wars since 1775 had reached a total of about 1,005,600.

at the end of two years of war in Korea, where approximately 19,350 American combat deaths have occurred since the invasion of South Korea on June 25, 1950, the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies estimates.

The association's continuing comparative study of war and traffic deaths showed, however, that the total of highway fatalities since the first automobile accident victim was killed in New York City 52 years and nine months ago is now far ahead of the all-time war total. Since February, when the total of lives lost in highway accidents equaled military fatalities for the first time, the historic toll of 1,018,500 traffic deaths has surged 13,000 above the nation's war fatality toll of 1,005,600.

In the four months since the automobile outpaced war as a killer, highway deaths have climbed 6,500. This is more than 100 times greater than the increase of 600 in the number of American lives lost in Korean fighting while the truce talks were being held at Panmunjom during the same period.

With the automobile now far outpacing war as a mass killer of Americans, the association said, there is little likelihood that military casualties will ever overtake highway fatalities in the grim race between the two killers, unless military forces were to be destroyed wholesale in any future fighting.

DON'T LET IT GO UNANSWERED!

Today many schools are in serious trouble. Nationally, we need thousands more classrooms over the next ten years. We need more teachers — 75,000 more in elementary schools alone. We need better equipment, more facilities, more up-to-date textbooks. We may need some of these things right here — so let's start doing something about it.
