

Mrs. Jones Marks 90th Birthday Anniversary On August 25

Mrs. George A. Jones observed her 90th birthday August 25. She is believed to be the oldest person living within the corporate limits of Franklin.

She celebrated the anniversary opening gift packages, reading scores of birthday letters, cards, and telegrams from children, grandchildren and friends, and, in the afternoon, greeting more than 50 persons who attended a tea given in her honor.

The former Miss Hattie B. Sloan, Mrs. Jones is a native of Franklin, and during her long life has known only two homes—the old Sloan place (now the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Whitmore), "over the river", where she was born and reared, and "the house-at-the-foot-of-the-hill", where she has lived since her marriage to the late Judge Jones. That latter house, incidentally, was the home of her grandparents, where she often visited as a child.

Except for failing eyesight, Mrs. Jones is almost as active as she was 10 years ago. She is a regular attendant at church services, is frequently present at community and musical events, and keeps posted on the news of the world.

The birthday tea honoring her was given by her daughter, Miss Laura M. Jones, and three daughters-in-law, Mrs. Gilmer A. Jones, Mrs. Weimar Jones, and Mrs. R. S. Jones, at the home of the last-named.

The tea table was covered with a hand-made lace cloth and centered with a punchbowl, in a setting of flowers and ferns. Lighted candelabra were at each end of the table.

Peek Is Graduated From Army School In Germany

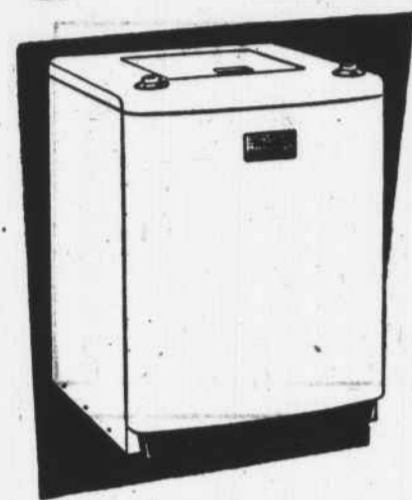

Pfc. Leroy Peek, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peek, of Franklin, recently was graduated from the 7th Army's non-commissioned officers academy at Munich, Germany, the Army Home Town News center has announced.

The six-week course emphasized the use of weapons, army

Principals in the recent ground breaking ceremony on the site of the proposed new $240,000 First Baptist church were (L to R) the Rev. M. W. Chapman, pastor, Mrs. Fred Grant, B.T.U. president, Mrs. W. N. Cook, W.M.U. president, W. C. Burrell, chairman of the building committee, Gus Baldwin, Sunday School superintendent, and Kenneth Hooker, brotherhood president. Approximately 50 persons actively took part in the ceremony and scores of others remained in their cars during the ground breaking. The ceremony was held August 18 on the Baptist-owned lot at the intersection of West Main street and US 23.

Farm PMA Visits New Feature Of Conservation

One of the important new features of the 1953 Agricultural Conservation program will be the contact of individual farmers by their elected Production Management Administration community committeemen, according to J. H. Enloe, Jr., administration, tactics, supply, physical fitness, and organization, the announcement explained.

Pfc. Peek is serving as an aidman in the 546th Medical Clearing company. He entered the army in February, 1951, and was assigned to overseas duty in August of last year.

chairman of the Macon County PMA committee.

The soil and water conservation practice, or conservation measure, to be carried out by Macon County farmers under the 1953 ACP, will be those which the individual farmer and his community committeeman determine are the most needed for the farm.

In the chairman's opinion, this important step in program development can be expected to result in reaching more acres with needed conservation practices and in using ACP assistance for the most urgently needed practices.

Mr. Enloe explained that when the community committeeman visits an individual farm he will be prepared to go over the farm with the farmer and help determine what practices or conservation measure are most needed. A year-by-year schedule of conservation operations worked out for each farm will enable the farmer to use program assistance most effectively, he said.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. Who said August and September are months of rest in the garden?

A. "The man who didn't have a garden," according to John H. Harris, State college extension horticultural specialist.

"August and September are good months for planting beets, kale, mustard, spinach, leaf lettuce, turnips, carrots and radishes. If you have plants or can buy them, now is the time to set out collard, broccoli, and cauliflower and cabbage plants for a fall crop", Mr. Harris says.

The specialist also offers instructions on making a frame for protecting vegetables this winter:

Plant the hardy vegetables mentioned above in a bed about six feet wide and as long as you like. Place boards or logs about 18 inches high around the sides. Then place strips across the top to support a covering of burlap or similar material.

This covering is not usually needed except when the temperature drops below 20 degrees.

Don't allow the sun to strike the vegetables while they are frozen, Harris warns. Transplant your cabbage and collards

This Week With Macon County Agents

By Mrs. Florence S. Sherrill

Mrs. Corinne J. Grimsley, of Raleigh, family life specialist, trained 15 family life leaders of the home demonstration clubs at a meeting held here Thursday morning at the Agricultural building. These leaders will conduct the family life discussion of all group meetings during the month of October. The following article is a project report prepared for family life leaders by the specialist.

TEACHERS ARE PEOPLE

"Do you know your child's teacher? Do you refer to her as 'teacher', or do you use her name? Teachers are people. They need to be treated as people. They want to be accepted by community members with interests other than the schoolroom. They would appreciate your talking to them about some things in addition to Mary's report card. A teacher needs encouragement and praise, especially when she starts out in her teaching career. She will be a better teacher if you help her feel she is successful.

"Our children leave home in the morning for school. Into the schoolroom they bring either a well nourished or under-nourished body, according to how well we balance their diet. They bring an alert or sluggish mind along with their emotions. If their homes are happy and secure, if they feel loved and respected as individuals, if they have a share in the planning and work of the home, they bring well adjusted personalities to school. They become members of the group. They have learned to give and take in a democratic family life. They have learned teamwork.

"These are the children we send to school. Do we help the teacher or are we a handicap? Compare yourself with the mothers in the following examples.

"Mrs. Adams' 10-year-old Junior brings home a report card showing poor work, lack of interest, and poor conduct. Mrs. Adams discusses his problems with the teacher in the presence of Junior and his young friends.

"I can't believe my son is causing you so much trouble. He has never brought home reports like this one! There must be something wrong at school", Mrs. Adams said.

"Because Junior's failures reflect his parents' failures at home, Mrs. Adams can't believe Junior is at fault. The teacher just doesn't like poor Junior and is taking it out on him. Her visit does no good because her mind is already made up. Junior's work isn't helped, in fact, now the teacher finds it harder to help him than before.

"Then, here is Mrs. Perry, who thinks 'the teacher is always right'. Her little girl, Mary, doesn't discuss her school problems with Mother because she knows it won't help. One keeps her misunderstanding, her hurt, coming to herself. The little girl feels resentful toward her teacher, the school, her studies, and her classmates. If the teacher visits her home, wanting to clear up the misunderstanding, Mary knows her mind.

comes. The frame is also a good place to seed and carry over head lettuce plants for transplanting next spring.
