

ONE THING OR ANOTHER—

To prevent lumping, powdered sugar should be stored in a tightly covered glass container. Lard or oil is preferable to butter for greasing pans; the salt in butter causes the butter to stick to the pan.

Jelly which has become sugary can be used to sweeten and flavor puddings or dried prunes, dried peaches or other fruits.

A coating of lemon juice prevents bananas, peaches and apples from discoloring after they have been sliced.

Lemons are juicier if heated before being squeezed.

A small amount of sugar added to olive oil will prevent it from becoming rancid.

If you have honey which has sugared, try placing the honey jar in a pan of water and boiling it.

A dressing of two parts honey to one part lemon juice is delicious over fresh fruits.

Obstinate spots on chromium plated hinges on refrigerators often may be removed with ammonia water.

Dry baking soda sprinkled over scorched food stuck to the pan will soften it and make it easy to remove.

Placing heavy pans or dishes on the open door of a range will cause the hinges to sag.

Baking soda may be used to remove grease and discoloration from a waffle iron.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. Why should I have my soil tested?

A. To determine just how much and what types of plant food your fields need. You probably have more invested in soil than any other thing you use on your farm. It makes sense to protect it. You will have to use it a long time. Soil management requires much knowledge of your particular soils, their lime and fertilizer needs. Using soil tests and other information as a basis for liming and fertilization will greatly reduce the amount of guesswork involved in farming. Also it will prevent your wasting money on unneeded lime and fertilizers.

J. How many soil samples should I have tested from my farm?

A. One composite sample may be taken from an area of five to 10 acres, but only if the soil appears similar throughout the area. Study your fields and divide them according to slope, degree of erosion, color of topsoil, texture (sand, silt, clay content), past management practices such as cropping system or liming. Areas that differ in any or all of these characteristics should be sampled separately where practical even though the areas may be small.

Q. Would you identify the rust-like spots appearing this year on my Golden Delicious apples?

A. They are probably caused from attacks of cedar apple rust, for it causes rust-like lesions on both the fruit and foliage. Control may be obtained by removing all red cedar trees within a radius of a mile of your fruit trees. If this is not practical, the disease may be controlled by adding three-quarters pound of ferbam per 100 gallons water, spray once in the pink stage of development, and again in the petal fall.

Kicking hogs causes bloodshot bruises which packers must trim away. National surveys show that nearly half the bruises occur on the ham.
