

D. E. CHASTAIN DIES AT HOME

Native Was 65; Was
Deacon Of Clear Creek
Church For 40 Years

David Edward Chastain, a native of the Clear Creek section of Highlands, died at his home last Thursday at the age of 65. Although his death was sudden, he had been in declining health for the past three years.

Graveside rites for Mr. Chastain, a farmer and caretaker, were conducted Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the Clear Creek Baptist Church cemetery by the Rev. J. O. Nix.

Born February 21, 1889, Mr. Chastain was the son of Andy and Mrs. Martha Jane Rogers Chastain. On March 23, 1911, he was married to Miss Nancy Ada Bryson, of Highlands, who survives.

Mr. Chastain was a deacon of the Clear Creek church for 40 years. From 1940 to 1951 he was caretaker for Ralph Sargeant, of Highlands.

Other survivors included three sons, Earl and Clyde Chastain, of the home, and Carl Chastain, of Satolah, Ga.; five daughters, Mrs. Maybelle Neely, Mrs. Estelle Talley, Mrs. Ona Beck, and Mrs. Carrie Crane, all of Highlands, and Miss Frances Chastain, of the home; three sisters, Mrs. Lona Wilson, and Mrs. Alafair Owens, of Highlands, and Mrs. Dona Brown, of Sealy; and seven grandchildren.

Fallbearers were Lawrence Bryson, Robert McKinney, Toliver McCall, Herman McCall, Shirley Burrell, and Edgar McCall.

Potts Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

SAFETY FIRST

The origin of the slogan "Safety First" is somewhat obscure. However, in 1890, Henry C. Frick, president of the Henry C. Frick Company, issued a bulletin to all mine superintendents which said in part: "We shall always keep the fact prominently in our mind that it is the desire of our company, and our duty as well, that we make safety of the lives of our employes our first and foremost important business." Nine years later, Frick inaugurated the country's first industry-wide safety campaign, with the slogan "Safety First Quality Second, Cost Third." The slogan was later shortened through usage to "Safety First."

Funds Available For Fall Seeding

The time is ripe for seeding permanent pasture and alfalfa and there is plenty of money available for financing, according to Mrs. Mary B. Justice, manager of the local A.S.C. office in the Agricultural Building.

The only requirement for obtaining money for fall seeding of permanent pasture and alfalfa is a soil test on record, she said.

Mrs. Justice said her office also is giving approvals for crimson clover and hairy vetch seedings this fall for acreage over and above the individual farmer's three-year average.

Soil sample kits are available at the county agent's office and at the A.S.C.
