In a brief proclamation, has asked "one and all to join the women of the garden club in the campaign to clean up Franklin and help keep it clean" in the current "Don't Be A Litterbug" drive.

Lewis Cabe, school editor of the Mountain Echo, Franklin High newspaper, served as assistant editor of the third annual High School Editor's Roundtable on the campus of Western Carolina College Friday and Saturday.

Norman Smith, editor-in-chief of the paper, was a panelist in a discussion on income, operation, and public relations of newspapers. Other members of the school newspaper staff attending were Tommy Gnuse, sports editor, Alex Cabe, Jr., staff photographer, Thomas Raby, farm editor, Margaret Thomas, assistant womans editor, Carol Stockton, business manager, and Mary Evelyn Cabe.

club women by County Agent T. H. Fagg and Holland McSwain, county school superintendent.

At the club roll call, conducted by Mrs. Prichard Peek, council secretary, 68 women were recognized as "honor members" by their individual clubs. Those so honored were chosen by their individual clubs on the basis of their contributions to home demonstration work over the past year.

Forty-four perfect attendance awards, four advance book review, and 13 regular book review certificates also were presented club women.

The Macon County Chorus, composed of club women, appeared on the program during the morning with Theodore Orr as director.

Lunch was served at noon in the dining quarters of the church with the Carson, Cartoogechaye, and Mulberry clubs in charge.

"Travels in New Zealand", coupled with the quick wit of the narrator, John Whitelock, spiced the afternoon session. Mr. Whitelock, an international farm youth exchange student, is studying this month in Macon. Using color slides of his native country, the young New Zealander traced the political and economic background in his home-land and drove home his points with humorous touches that kept his audience chuckling a good part of the time.

Mrs. Florence S. Sherrill, county home agent, announced the perfect attendance winners and the names of the outstanding clubs following his talk.

"Looking to 1955" and the possibility of a county fair in that year was discussed by J. P. Brady, of The Franklin Press staff and a member of a fair committee of interested persons.

The Rev. S. B. Moss, pastor of the Methodist church, gave the invocation.

This year's "Achievement Day" was in memory of the late S. W. Mendenhall, county agent, and the late Miss Nellie Deal, Holly Springs club.

Mrs. Dan Reynolds, council president, presided. The program was arranged by Mrs. George Byrd, council vice-president.

shaw, 20, of Donaldson A.F.B., Greenville, S. C., was listed as the driver of the car. Tuesday he was taken to a hospital at his base following treatment at Angel Hospital here for a chest injury and a cut on the right cheek.

Miss Mildred Childers, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Childers, of Franklin, was shaken up and bruised in the collision. She was discharged from the hospital yesterday.

Airman 2/c Roscoe G. Jackson, 19, also of Donaldson, A.F.B., was shaken up and bruised, but did not require hospitalization.

Highway Patrolman H. T. Ferguson blamed "excessive speed" on the accident. He said the driver is charged with reckless driving.

The car, a 1941 Chevrolet, was demolished in the wreck, which occurred about 12:15. It struck the right side of the bridge.
