Here's the way Lower Cullasaja Falls looked in the old days. When the Franklin-Highlands highway was built, about 1930, tons and tons of rock were dynamited over into the gorge, considerably changing the appearance of the falls. The only way to get down to the waterfall in that period was by a narrow, tortuous trail that often led over rock cliffs. (Photo loaned by Mrs. Fred Wood.)

In 1846, Land Here Valued At Half Cent An Acre

In 1846, land in Macon County was valued for tax purposes at from less than half a cent to about three cents an acre.

This is revealed by a copy of an 1846 tax list, apparently for Millshoal Township, owned by Charles W. Nolen.

The list, written in ink on a folded sheet of paper, contains the names of about 60 property owners. While the paper is yellowed with age, the writing, in the copy-book style of a century ago, still is quite clear.

On the list are the names of the property owners, the number of acres of land, the tax valuation, the "white polls", the "black polls", the "horses and jacks", and the tax levied.

The first name on the list is Joshua Ammons. He is shown as the owner of 1619 acres, valued at $6. The tax on the land, plus the tax on 20 horses and jacks, was $1.30 for the year.

Others listing property, as well as the names could be read, were John Ammons, Nipper Adams, William Bord, Archibald Bate-man, Joseph Brandie, Henry Brandie, John Baynes, Logan Berry, John Corbin, Isaiah Cook, David Carrole, S. Cheeks, James Caldwell, John Cook, Thomas Cooper, William Deal, Davis Elmore, William Elmore, Hugh Elmore, Samuel Elliott, James D. Franks, Joshua Franks.
