PROJECTS ARE TALKED AT MEETING

Cullasaja Community To Finish Cemetery Landscaping, Seeding

By MRS. BESSIE STIWINTER (Community Reporter)

A large crowd attended the Cullasaja Community Development Organization meeting on August 2, with visitors from Louisiana, Alabama, and Florida.

The meeting was opened with singing. The devotional was given by the Rev. Fred Sorrells.

It was voted to take money from the "birthday bank" to buy a gift for Frank Bryson, who has been sick for some time.

The group discussed finishing the landscaping and seeding at the Sugarfork cemetery. It was decided to hire Howard Stewart's bulldozer to remove the stumps.

Donations for the project came to $63. A working is set for August 20. A community picnic supper will be held after the working. This will be at the picnic area at 6 o'clock. Everyone is urged to attend and bring a filled picnic basket.

The water pipe at the picnic ground was installed Saturday, August 6. Bill Higdon gave the use of his tractor to dig the ditch.

The group worked on its fair exhibit Monday night.

Moore's Hit Turns Trick For All-Stars

Crawford Moore pounded out a game-winning double in the 10th inning here Sunday afternoon as the Franklin All-Stars edged Cullasaja 6 to 5.

Norman Seay scored from second on Moore's timely hit.

Pitcher Grady Corbin, who went all the way, paced his team with two hits for four teams at bat.

Saturday night at 8, the All-Stars have a game scheduled in Hayesville. Sunday they will play Blairsville, Ga., on the home field at 2:30 p. m.

On the 18th, Blairsville will play host to the All-Stars; on the 24th Hayesville will come here for a game; and on the 28th the All-Stars will go to Canal Lake for what probably will be the final game of the season.

Plans are now being made for a series between several teams in the area. All-Star Manager J. D. Gibson this week said more information will be available next week.

OTTO GROUP MEETING

A meeting of the Otto Rural Community Development Organization is set tomorrow (Friday) at 7:30 p. m., at the school, it has been announced.

Chamber Welcomes Hosiery Officials

An informal coats-off barbecue staged Wednesday night of last week by the Franklin Chamber of Commerce officially welcomed the personnel of Burlington Industries, Inc., new Franklin plant.

Held in the high school cafeteria, the get-together between the civic leaders and company officials featured a talk by J. C. Cowan, Jr., vice-chairman of the board of directors of Burlington.

Also present were a number of other out-of-town company officials.

In his brief remarks, W. W. Reeves, chamber president, welcomed guests. Toastmaster Holland McSwain introduced officials of the new plant and on behalf of the community welcomed them and their families. Stephen A. Bundy, plant supervisor, responded.

The speaker, Mr. Cowan, was introduced by John Harden, vice-president in charge of public relations for Burlington.

Others Investigated

A number of other communities were investigated as possible plant sites before Franklin was selected, Mr. Cowan said. Civic Leadership, fine community spirit, cooperative attitude, and the caliber of the people helped make the decision, he added.

"The substantial investment that we are making in our plant here expresses better than anything I can say our deep appreciation for all that you have done and are doing to cooperate with us," he declared.

The vice-chairman paraphrased Gov. Hodges' recent remarks here that pure water, pleasant climate, and beautiful surroundings make this one of the finest sections in the state with much to offer industry.

Mr. Cowan emphasized that Burlington officials want to play their part in the community as good citizens and friendly neighbors.

"If at any time we are not doing that," the speaker said, "we will expect you to tell us."

Traces Growth

In tracing for his audience the 32-year growth of Burlington, which now has 90 plants in 12 states, 57 communities, and three foreign countries, he touched on the character of the company, as well as its physical set-up.

Mr. Cowan said the company is well-financed "and, we like to feel, well managed."

"Our interest centers primarily around Main Street, not Wall Street," he declared, and the management likes to think of the company not as a big business but a collection of small businesses.

Products from the various plants are fashioned and priced for consumption by the masses, he said, and the company takes pride "in the contribution towards making Mr. and Mrs. Average American the best-dressed in the world."

Sales for the first three-quarters of the year totaled 500 million, Mr. Cowan revealed, with profits amounting to about 15 million. This gives a return on sales of about three per cent, he noted, and therefore leaves little margin for error.

Because of the close relationship between management and employees in the Burlington set-up, Mr. Cowan said "in our plants we don't feel there is any place for the union."

He said it was his belief that "absentee management" was the cause of many labor disputes. But Burlington, he continued, has experienced a harmonious relationship because of the closeness of employee and management.

Horses have been rapidly decreasing in North America and Western Europe in recent years, but show increases in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.
