Carson Sees Examples Of Scout Work

By MRS. LEONA W. MOORE (Community Reporter)

Demonstrations of Boy Scout work marked a meeting of the Carson Rural Community Development Organization September 9 at the community building.

The Rev. David Barkley, scoutmaster of Troop 6, was present with his Scouts to give the community an idea of the work the troop is doing.

James Graham, troop leader, Charles Garner, Allen Garner, Robert Wallace, Doyle Cloer, and Doyle McCracken demonstrated first aid, gave the Scout laws, and used a signal system to send messages. All of this was very interesting for those attending the meeting.

Score sheets were given out and plans were made for the final work of the contest year.

Mrs. John Cunningham has donated 30 books to the community library, bringing her total to 117. Many of the young people are using the library.
