Peaches For Pantry Shelves

During the summer season each year, the homemaker's thoughts turn to ways she can conserve summer surplus foods for enjoyment during the non-productive months.

Fruits and vegetables always find welcome space on the pantry shelves. With the peach season well under way, Iola Pritchard, extension economist in food conservation and marketing, recommends the hot and cold pack canning method.

First of all, peaches should be ripe, but firm, and have a good flavor. In the hot pack method, they should be washed thoroughly and sorted as to color, ripeness, and size.

For easy peeling, put the peaches in a wire basket or cheese cloth and dip for a minute or two in boiling water. They should then be dipped quickly into cold water.

After they have been dipped, they are easily peeled. Slip the skins off, cut in halves, and take out the pits. To keep them from darkening, drop them into a gallon of water containing two tablespoons of salt and two tablespoons vinegar and then drain.

If the fruit is juicy, add one-half cup sugar to each quart of raw fruit and heat to boiling. For less juicy fruit, drop halves into thin to medium syrup, boiling hot, and heat through. The hot peaches should then be packed into hot jars and covered with boiling syrup. Adjust lids and process pint and quart jars 20 minutes in boiling water bath.

In the cold pack method, the peaches are prepared the same way as hot pack up to the point of cooking. The raw fruit is packed to one-half inch of the jar top and covered with boiling liquid (thin syrup or juice), leaving one-half inch head space. Adjust lids and process pint jars 25 minutes and quart jars 35 minutes.

It has been estimated that there are more than 10,000 species of destructive insects in the United States. And the average farmer probably feels he has some of all of them.

"Let Your Common Sense be Your Guide"

Mr. X, ever since his childhood, has had drilled into his head things against the Catholic Church. Perhaps he read magazine articles and books which gave "facts" about the Church as seen from the inside by ex-Priests and "escaped" nuns. Or perhaps he listened to orators who cared not for the truth, if they could succeed in promoting religious hatred and earn their thirty pieces of silver.

But to all the Mr. X's we make this appeal: Take two minutes time to think the thing out. If all the accusations against the church from the days of the Apostles down to the present time, were true, how could the church have lasted for over 1900 years? How could she have gained a membership today of over 470 Million, 33 million of which are loyal Americans? How could she attract more than 100,000 Adult Converts a year in the United States alone?

Remember, too, that those who join the Catholic Church do not do it for worldly advancement. They do not do it because they have not heard the propaganda against her. They do not do it because the Catholic Church fits a certain type of undeveloped mind, for the converts include many of the outstanding men and women of the world — Authors, Scientists, Teachers, Clergymen, and the like. No, they do it because they have delved into the Bible, they have investigated history and theology from all sides and their consciences have permitted no other course.

The Mr. X's of today, with little time for investigation, are letting their common sense be their guide. Many now refuse to be deceived by professional anti-Catholics. Others are asking for information on the foolish and bitter accusations which their common sense will not let them believe. Our Church and its members are in existence to answer your questions. Ask!
