Miss Haskell Marries Fred West

Miss Mary Elizabeth Haskell, a matching headpiece and an Au- daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McCree Clark, of West Columbia, S. C., and Frederick Morrow West, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jesse Lyle West, of Franklin, were married Friday, March 1, at 7:30 p. m., at St. John's Episcopal Church, in Columbia.

The vows were spoken before an altar decorated with palms, altar vases containing white gladioli and pale pink carnations, and candles.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. Kenneth Morris.

Given in marriage by her step-father, the bride wore a gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace over bridal satin, fashioned with long sleeves coming to a point over the wrist, scalloped neckline outlined with swirls of sequins, and a full ballerina tulle skirt with wide scalloped inset of lace. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a prayer book topped with an orchid.

Mrs. Earl Dovell, of Cayce, S. C., was matron of honor. She wore a street-length princess style gown of sea Nile green pure silk organza, designed with high waist line. The bodice of matching lace was banded with organza, and the sweetheart neckline extended into a "v" in the back. She wore

Survival? Or Playful Work? Read A Book

Interested in a survival text for civilian defense?

In a book to take the work out of play?

In the personal story of a member of the famous French Folies Bergere?

Or tracking down a killer in a whodunit?

These are among the 42 new books added to the shelves at the Franklin Library this week.

"Living Off the Country," by Bradford Angier, tells how to exist on Nature without the comforts of civilization. It is described as "presenting a way of life that Thoreau himself would find interesting . . . and is to be considered a survival text in civilian defense."

A fat volume by Helen and Larry Eisenberg, "Omnibus of Fun," offers hundreds of games and recreational activities for homes, clubs, and programs.

Constance Tomkinson's "Les Girls" deals with the French burlesque troupe, Folies Bergere, and is the author's personal story of life with that and other European dance groups.

Among several mysteries in the new book shipment is one by Dorothy L. Sayers, British writer. Its title is "Unnatural Death."

Mrs. Frank I. Murray, librarian, reminded library users of the hours. They are 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, and 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Saturday. The library is closed on Wednesday and Sunday.

To the right of the front door, outside, is a receptacle in which returned books may be placed.

Other new volumes received were (juvenile fiction), "All Ready for Summer", "Tizz Makes a Trip", "It's Spring, It's Spring", "Thunder", "Big Doin's on Razorback Ridge", "The Island Stallion Races", "The Black Stallion Revolts", "Dipper of Copper Creek", "Lassie Comes Home", "Little Big Feature", and "Gruyo of the Flying H".

In junior non-fiction were "The Story of Rocks" and "The Magic Listening Cup".

Adult fiction included "A Little More Time", David Chandler; "Dead Man's Folly", Agatha Christie; "Last Stage to Aspen", Allan Vaughn Elston; "Kill or Cure", E. S. Ferraris; "Riddle of a Lady", Anthony Gilbert; "Nurse Laurie's Cruise", Adelaide Humphries. "The Burned Man", Christopher Monig; "The Rancho of the Little Lores", Robert Nathan; "Chaplet of Grace", Basil Partridge; "The Diehard", Jean Potts; "The Man in the Net", Patrick Quentin; "Florida Nurse", Ann Rush; "The Whole Voyaid and Other Stories", William Saroyan; "Wildfire at Midnight", Mary Stewart. Burrell's Offers Reward For Those Stealing Accessories

Since 1950, several thousand dollars worth of automobile parts and accessories have been pilfered from Burrell Motor Company lots and this week the company offered a $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons connected with the thefts.

Leroy Berrong, Burrell's sales manager, said most of the stealing took place on the lot next to Sossamon Furniture Company and the lot behind Burrell's garage. Such items as wheels, tires, cigarette lighters, and, sometimes radios, have been taken, Mr. Berrong said.

The University of North Carolina School of Medicine last year instructed 505 dental, pharmacy and nursing students, plus 108 non-medical students.

BLARNEY

By A Brady Called J. P.

Just as I figured, I really walked into IT with last week's column on ladies' hats.

The newspaper had no more than hit the street than the telephone started ringing. On the other end of the lines were women: women who agreed with some of my observations, women who thought I was being unfair, women who wanted to know if I planned a survey of male knees jutting from the hems of Bermuda shorts, and women . . . well you know how something like that can get out of hand.

One member of my church was slightly miffed. She recalled I sat behind her in church a couple of Sundays back and was convinced I used her chapeau as the model for my GARBAGE CAN LINER.

I was probably the most startled by Mrs. Margaret Ordway.

She faced me dead on the street, face serious.

"And just how would you classify this hat I am wearing," she asked.

"Well, Mrs. Ordway," I said, viewing the piece of felt with a practiced eye. "It definitely has character."

I was fully expecting to get the seat of my trousers chewed out by the three dogs she had with her, but I knew I had weathered the encounter when she chuckled.

"Would you believe this hat is 54 years old," she asked.

"Frankly, yes I would . . ." I started. (One of the dogs looked up at me hungrily.)

"Well it is," she continued. "I bought it in Switzerland . . . it's a real alpine hat . . . of course, you would never know it now. I long ago removed the braid and feathers from it."

And at this point, I swear never to talk about ladies' hats again!

A woman informed me in no uncertain terms that the skillful art of Tobacco Chewing is nowhere near its end here in Macon County.

"Just try to make it through the spray of Main Street some Saturday, especially in the vicinity of the courthouse," she challenged.

An intriguing postal card arrived in my mail this week. From Paris, France, yet, with a picture of the Eiffel Tower.

"Who in Paris would be sending me a card?" I asked myself, thumbing through my mental store of French la femmes etc.

Then I read the message. "Bonjour" it began.

"This card via 'Gay Paree' has gone far out of its way to reach you . . . our way of reminding you that here at your neighborhood . . ."

At your neighborhood? Yep, the card originated right here in Franklin. It (along with hundreds of others) was sent out by Franklin Gulf Service, stamped in Paris, and remailed. That's a mighty clever way of letting customers know you're interested in 'em.
