McGlamery Talks To Rotary Club On Auto Safety

Why did 1,108 persons die in automobile accidents in North Carolina last year?

Because somebody violated the law. In every fatal accident, there was a violation of law, B. L. McGlamery told the Franklin Rotary Club at its meeting last Thursday night.

Somebody was driving under the influence of alcohol, or was on the wrong side of the road, or failed to give the proper signal, or was driving too fast, or doing something else in violation of traffic laws.

"There is no such thing as an 'unavoidable' traffic accident," Mr. McGlamery said, quoting Governor Luther H. Hodges.

The traffic death toll can be reduced, the speaker, a member of the Governor's Traffic Safety Council speakers' bureau, declared. The proof is that it has been reduced.

Last year there were five per cent fewer traffic deaths in this state than in 1955, and the reduction in deaths is much greater than that figure suggests; because activities, announced that a camporee will be held May 17-19. He named Ben Edwards, of Cullowhee, as camporee chairman.

deaths were reduced five per cent, despite the fact there was seven per cent more traffic on the highways.

Turning to the dollars-and-cents side of the picture, Mr. McGlamery said the property damage from automobile accidents in 1955 (the figure for 1956 is not available) totaled 139 million dollars.

Urging behind-the-wheel driver training for all high school students in North Carolina, Mr. McGlamery said this not only would save lives, but bring about a reduction of at least 10 per cent in the cost of liability insurance.

The weekly club meeting was held at the Carson Community House, with women of the community serving the meal.
