Auto Flim-Flam Is Worked Here

At least one local motor com-pany has been the victim of an automobile flim-flam racket reportedly operating in five or six Southern states.

S. B. I. Agent P. R. Kitchen of Waynesville, and the highway patrol are investigating the loss of a new automobile by Conley Motor Company to the racket.

The scheme works this way: An automobile is purchased in North Carolina (or in another state) under a financing arrangement. It is driven to automobile title laws, and the title to the automobile is transferred to another name. This South Caule, A low of 32 was recording title is clear and the first came again Tuesday daughter. May 5 at Angel Ho. Macon Fish Bill Stalls in House

Action in the House on a Macon County fish bill was stalled early this week as the General Assembly took time for the inauguration in Raleigh of the new president of the Con-solidated University of North Carolina

Already passed by the Senate the bill would except a private fishing lodge on the Nantahala River, near Rainbow Springs, from a state-wide statute which prohibits placing obstructions in public streams.

Thursday of last week, a Senate messenger was sent to the House with an important change in the bill. The land under consideration does not lie in Nantahala Township, as the bill specifies. It's partly in Clay County and partly in Macon's Cartoogechaye Township, and the amendment made this change.

The bill is in the House Conservation and Development Committee

Mr. Swafford's M9-1tc young helper pitched right in and then disappeared before he could be identified.

It Really Was Frost . . .

His potato shoots black, his early beans killed, and a bed of cabbage plants ruined, B. A. Baldwin, of the White Oak Flats section of Nantahala, said Angel Hospital. Monday morning's frost was one of the most severe he'd ever seem for this time of year.

Mr. Baldwin said years there were May frosts, but this week's caught folks in his community by surprise.

The temperature at Franklin and Coweta was 31 Monday morning. Nantahala, which lies nearly a thousand feet higher than Franklin, was hurt by the frost while Franklin seemed to have escaped. John W. Roane, a farmer on Upper Cartoogechaye, said he was able to save his bean; by pouring water over the plants pital.

Houk's Property Bill Is Now Law

The general assembly last enacted into law a bill which requires Macon County property buyers to check with the tax supervisor before having their deeds registered.

The idea behind Rep. G. L. Houk's bill is to avoid double listing of property. The bill pro-vides that a certificate from the tax supervisor must be presented the register showing that the new ownership has been recorded on the tax books.
