Well Prepared Plans And Well Kept Records Are Loan Fund Aids

Thoughtfully prepared farm and home plans, together with well kept records of the year's farm income and expenses, are important factors when it comes to getting the greatest possible benefit out of Farmers Home Administration loan funds and farm income.

That's the opinion of R. F. Hemphill, the agency's county supervisor for Macon County, who, in addition to lending money to family-type farmers for operating, buying, enlarging, or improving farms, spends much of his time advising with loan applicants and borrowers about their plans for better farming, farm and home bookkeeping, and money management.
