NORTH CAROLINA MEANS BETTER LIVING

A whole new recreational activity has grown up in the central areas of North Carolina in the last 5 years, with the opening of the huge artificial power lakes to cottagers and water sport enthusiasts. For example, water skiing is now a popular sport in the Piedmont all the way from Henderson in the North to Charlotte in the South.
And as accessibility and leisure time increase in these areas, an enlightened people are finding that "legal control" of the sale of beer and ale is also a part of the better living that is their North Carolina heritage.
