TEACHING IN ASHEVILLE —

Miss Bingham Entering Methodist Mission Work

Miss Bingham

NEW YORK — Miss Birdie Lee Bingham, of Franklin, Route 1, is among 18 persons who will begin this fall two years of home mission service for the Methodist church.

Miss Bingham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bingham, will go to the Allen High School, Asheville, as a teacher.

The new home missionaries, known as "US-2's" will serve in children's homes, community centers, rural parishes, and mission schools in the United States. On September 1, they completed six weeks of intensive training at Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn., in preparation for their missionary service. All will serve under the Woman's Division of Christian Service of the Methodist Board of Missions.

Born in Franklin, Miss Bingham spent her early life there and attended the Franklin High School. She studied two years each at Brevard College, Brevard, and Pfeiffer College, Misenheimer. She was graduated from the latter school last June with a bachelor of arts degree in religion.

While in college, Miss Bingham was a member of the Missions Club, the Women's Athletic Association, the Euterpean Literary Society, Kappa Chi, and the Methodist Student Fellowship. She is a member of the Bethany Methodist Church in Albemarle.

Breakfast Is Important Meal Of Day

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day; but many people skip it completely.

Modern breakfasts are keyed to the changing tempo of American life. Huge and hearty breakfasts that belonged to days of hard physical labor are no longer needed so generally. As a result of modern ways of living and the hundreds of conveniences at home and at work, most people lead a sedentary life.

From many standpoints, breakfast is the most important meal of the day. It must provide not only a sufficient quantity, but also right kinds of food. The quantity of food should be adapted to age, sex, and activity of the individual. The kinds of food needed — and nutrients required — are essentially the same for all persons.

Miss Jo Earp, food and nutrition specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says fruit should be a part of breakfast because it gives zest to meals, helps prevent constipation, and many have ample vitamin C.

Cereals and breads give protein, iron and other minerals, vitamins, and food energy. With milk added, you get enough calcium and the B-vitamin, riboflavin. A meat is important at breakfast since it provides high-grade proteins for body building and repair. Summer or winter, there's something hot, as a rule, in a good breakfast — a hot beverage, or hot cereal. Something hot is cheering and gives you a sense of well-being.

The basic breakfast pattern of fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter is a guide to the preparation of an adequate morning meal for most persons, advises Miss Earp.

Hog Prices Expected To Drop In Fall

The most critical question in the hog feeding business is, "When should I sell?" And the question becomes even more important this year.

Fred A. Mangum Jr., farm management specialist for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, says that during the past four years average price for hogs in North Carolina from August to November has dropped $2.42 per hundred pounds. That's a difference of $4.94 per 200-pound animal.

With a 12 per cent increase in this year's spring pig crop, the price drop is likely to be even greater this fall, declares Mr. Mangum.

The question hog feeders must decide, says the specialist, is whether to sell their hogs early to take advantage of these prices or to feed their hogs to a greater weight with the relatively cheap corn that is available.

Two disadvantages of feeding hogs to heavier weights are (1) feed conversion rate is not as

Apron Revue

Another new activity to build interest in the 4-H clothing project and encourage young club members to participate in the county dress revue was held recently in Iredell County.

An apron contest was held for club members 10, 11, and 12 years of age. Miss Doris Jane Teeter, assistant home economics agent, reports that Lynda Sloan was named first place winner. She modeled a smart white organdy apron.

Craft Workshops

"The purpose of the craft program is to get 4-H'ers interested in a craft which in time they may learn to perfect and sell objects of art on the county's roadside markets," said Mrs. Lou Anne Alphin, assistant home economics agent in Currituck County.

Instruction has been given recently in construction of shell earrings, hammered aluminum bracelets, and plastic-covered coat hangers. Local leaders have served favorable above 200 pounds, and (2) declining hog prices. If hogs are selling at $14 and corn is costing you $1.10 per bushel, you must receive at least $13.42 to pay feed cost alone if you add an additional 25 pounds of gain.

Since around 80 per cent of the cost of sending a hog to market is feed, the greatest opportunity for profits lies in managing feed.

Getting hogs on the early market may well mean the difference between profit and loss this year, declares Mr. Mangum.

as instructors.

Adult Leaders

Fair booths, camp, and achievement night were activities recently discussed at a 4-H leaders meeting in Wayne County. Sixty-five leaders were present to discuss coming events, reports Miss Sara Faran, assistant home economics agent.

Joe Edward and Allen Swinson, of Brodgen, presented their district winning poultry production team demonstration during the program. Jimmy Aycock, of Fremont, gave his winning public speaking address.

Road Signs

Eight permanent 4-H road signs have been ordered for erection on main highways entering Pender County.

According to Mrs. Francis H. Bostic, assistant home economics agent, several home demonstration clubs and various civic organizations in Pender County are sponsoring the project.

Sewing Hints

Sixteen Stateline community girls in Stokes County recently attended a clothing workshop. The younger girls tried their skills at making aprons while older ones worked on skirts.

According to Miss Betty S. Briggs, assistant home economics agent, the girls needed instruction only on the finishing touches of sewing. The older girls concentrated on zippers and correct hemming stitches.

Profitable Summer

Becky Proffitt, from Yancey County, has spent a lot of time this summer working on her 4-H room improvement project. The ceiling is low and slanted in her bedroom so she painted the entire room, ceiling and all, a light pink. This made her room look much larger.

According to Miss Virginia Cox, assistant home economics agent, Becky is planning to make a bedspread with a dust ruffle for her bed. By the time she finishes, it will be a room that every teenage girl dreams about.

An ounce of brake is worth a pound of horn.

Macon Sports Roundup

Racing Fans

The big Southern 500 race in Darlington over the Labor Day week end attracted a lot of local racing fans.

And, Conley Motor Company's congenial and ever-faithful Ford fan, Bob Moore, was taken to the cleaners and half way back when one of his beloved vehicles didn't win. After the poor showing of the T-birds at the W.N.C. 500, Bob was sure the longer Darlington track would give the T-birds room to stretch their legs.

Bob is being made to pay some of his bets off in weekly installments, to keep the loss fresh in his mind.

He's been a good sport through it all — even when a fellow called up and told him not to miss the Go-Cart races Sunday because Banjo Matthews was running his T-bird against a Maytag!

In addition to Bob, others going to Darlington were T. W. Angel III, Bob Sanders, Frank L. Henry, Clyde Sanders, Charles Conley, Sr., Charles Conley, Jr., Bill Gregory, Jim Conley, Zeb Meadows, Harley Moore Stewart, Speck Murray, Jim Wurst, Sanford Mann, Ray Swafford, and Kenneth Smith. This list isn't complete by any means. There were many more Maconians present.

Passing Team

Football fans, who have been used to Franklin teams that use ground rather than air attacks for major gains, are cheered this season with Coach Dick Stott's passing team. The Panthers passed Clayton silly Saturday night.

As the season progresses and experience comes to the inexperienced, the Panthers are going to be a greatly improved team, one that should be a real powerhouse next season.

Bows And Arrows

At the Western Auto, Verlon Swafford reports he's never seen anything like the present demand for archery equipment. He's having trouble keeping bows and arrows in stock. The popularity of the sport is spreading. Also, from his sales of hunting bows and arrows, a lot of game is going to get the silent treatment this season. Hunters can use bows two weeks before the regular season opens for hunting.

Several bow and arrow deer hunts also are being scheduled in the mountain area this year.

Help Wanted

That the Franklin All-Stars have done much this year to revive baseball is undeniable. The team has had an excellent season and the brand of ball displayed has left little to be desired.

Baseball could have been emphasized even more in Franklin if the All-Stars had obtained the Labor Day Tri-County League tournament (which they won) for Franklin.

The reason the team failed in its efforts? A lack of facilities, no bleachers, for example, at the county-owned ball field on US 23-441 south.

How about some organization deciding to step in and help equip a ball field Franklin can be proud of?
