Remodeled Franklin Elementary School . . . It Smells New

'Pretty As A Rainbow' Describes Remodeling Of Franklin Elementary School

"It's as pretty as a rainbow," added many years to the life of the 26-year-old brick structure. In addition to new paint throughout, the renovation included practically everything new on the inside except the floor. In preparation for the job, workmen all but gutted the interior. Walls and ceilings were plastered, book cases, cabinets, and blackboards were built, windows were repaired, and the outside was painted brick red with white trimming. "It makes the other building (high school) look bad, doesn't it," observed the superintendent one day last week during an inspection trip.

Plans also call for venetian blinds in all 12 rooms. Some already have been installed. How do the children like it? "It smells new," decided one.

MISS JONES FETES MRS. FRANK TUCKER

Miss Laura M. Jones entertained with a tea at her home Thursday last week honoring Mrs. Frank Tucker, who plans to leave the first week in October to return to Cuba, where she will teach at Colegio Pinson College in Camaguey for the school year.

The guest list included members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, Circle I.

Miss Karla McCoy Weds Army Officer

Miss Karla McCoy, of Columbus, Ga., formerly of Franklin and Wiesbaden, Germany, became the bride of Capt. John Williams, of Coatsville, Pa., and Fort Benning, Ga., in a double-ring ceremony performed September 14.

The couple honeymooned in Panama City, Fla.

Mrs. Williams will join her husband in France, where he is reporting for a new assignment with the U.S. Army.

TEAGUE CHILDREN CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

Staff At Work

New Teachers

FHS has its share of fresh new teachers this year. Incidentally, every one of them are FHS graduates, and all but two are Western Carolina College alumnae. The two exceptions are Jerry Sutton, a graduate of N. C. State, who teaches biology, and Mrs. Victor Perry, a graduate of Woman's College, University of North Carolina, who teaches U. S. history. The other new teachers and their courses are Miss Joy McCullum, French and English; Grady Corbin, civics and history; Lonnie Crawford, algebra; and Howard Patton, chemistry. Ted Wilkinson, a student at Western Carolina College, is now teaching in the commercial department as part of his college course.

Echo Staff

Well Natch!

The FHS Panthers are to be congratulated on the fine brand of football and sportsmanship displayed in last Thursday's home game with Hayesville.

Shipping fever losses among cattle in the U.S. amount to about $25 million annually.
