OPEN HOUSE SUNDAY — Drymans Married 50 Years

The Dryman farm in the Scaly community will be the scene of a happy family Sunday when all of the children and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dryman gather to help them celebrate their 50th Golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Dryman were actually married on July 7, 1910, but chose Sunday as the day for a celebration and open house from 3 to 5 p.m. when they invite all their friends to stop in for a visit.

"These 50 years have passed quickly," says Mrs. Dryman, "and in another sense, it seems like a long time since we were married... but we don't feel old."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dryman were born and raised in the Scaly community and they remember when it was a busy place with many more families than it numbers now.

"A lot of families have moved away," Mrs. Dryman said, "and now lots of tourists have moved in, but most of them leave in the winters."

Mr. Dryman farms the same ground that his father tilled, but methods have changed. "In the old days we didn't know what commercial fertilizer was and crops weren't always so good. But last year I raised 9,000 pounds of cabbage on one acre and sold it for $1,600."

Trips to town weren't too frequent in the early days of the Drymans' marriage. "I mostly stayed home and raised the family," says Mrs. Dryman. Mr. Dryman usually did the buying of supplies in Dillard, Ga. "prices were too high in the tourist town of Highlands.

Like Their TV One of the couple's favorite pastimes now is their television set. "Mr. Dryman wasn't sure he wanted one at first," says Mrs. Dryman, "but now we both have our favorite programs that we watch every night."

Drymans are expecting their children for the celebration and they are Prelo Dryman of Franklin, Mrs. Parker Norton of Franklin, Mrs. Luther Owens of Scaly, Mrs. J. D. Head of Scaly, Mrs. Bessie Barnes of Scaly and Frank Dryman of Scaly.

"We're looking for all our friends to visit us, Sunday," they said, "its a long time until our 100th anniversary."

Happily married 50 years on July 7
