

WEIMAR JONES Editorial Page Editor

THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1960

THE FLORIDA CLUB Good Mountaineers, Too

It's interesting to note that the Florida Club already has in excess of 90 members.

The figure, which undoubtedly is only a fractional part of the club's potential membership, suggests how many Floridians are coming to Western North Carolina. It suggests, too, how much this influx may contribute to this area, intellectually and culturally, as well as economically.

They come, most of them, first for vacation; then to spend the summer; finally, to make this their permanent home.

But why a Florida Club? Don't they plan to become a part of this mountain community?

Well, we welcome not only these Floridians, but the growth of the Florida Club. After all, the fellow who isn't loyal to his former home isn't likely to be loyal to his new one.

If we realize they can contribute much to us, surely they are smart enough to realize we can contribute to them, too. The fact they remain good Floridians, as evidenced by the Florida Club, doesn't mean they can't and won't become good mountaineers, too.

Ironic

Owners of Levittown, N. J., which was intended to be an all-white housing development, must sell to Negroes as well as whites.

A New Jersey court so ruled, and now the U.S. Supreme Court has upheld that ruling. It did so by the expedient of refusing to review the lower court's decision.

Since the Supreme Court repeatedly has held that segregation violates the U. S. Constitution, and thus is a federal, not a state, matter, this latest action is hardly surprising.

There is a touch of irony, though, in the reason it assigned. It declined to interfere, the court explained, because the case involved no substantial federal question.

Salute

Franklin Future Farmers came home recently with an impressive number of prizes won in state competition at Raleig.a. Included were three first places for the local chapter.

of bombs and missiles? After all, somebody has to fire a bomb or launch a missile.

Aren't we, perhaps, putting the cart before the horse in all this emphasis on wealth, on goods, on purely material things?

In the final analysis, won't it be such factors as the intelligence of our thinking, the honesty of our motives, the strength of our national character, the will to win - won't it be these things that decide the cold war?

Travel Now, Pay Later

"Travel now, pay later." That's the latest in installment buying.

The Southern Railway, ever progressive, has just announced details of its installment-payment travel program.

Want to go on vacation? You can take as much as ten months to pay for the trip by rail. (That leaves you two debt-free months to accumulate funds for next year's vacation.)

Anybody can travel on those easy terms. Maybe even a country editor could finance a vacation.

But wait a minute! here's a hitch. The Southern, darn it, wants one-fourth down. Let's see, we could go about as far as Prentiss, or maybe all the way to Otto.

We could, that is, if there were passenger trains on the T. F. railway. Well, there aren't.

But say! maybe there's a compensating factor. If we went by handcar, maybe the Southern, owner of the T. F., wouldn't demand any down payment. That way, we could take a really long vacation trip.

Look out, Clayton, here we come!

'Amaze Your Friends . . .

(Christian Science Monitor)

We are amazed—but not for the desired reason—at the number of ads that start out: "Amaze your friends . . ." or "Imagine your neighbors' surprise when they see your new . . ." We are amazed, all right-and annoyed.

"Be the envy of your neighbors," says the come-on for chry-santhemum plants.

"Startle your visitors," urges another, selling blueprints of guided missiles (presumably obsolete or unsuccessful) to mount in one's den or playroom.

"Mystify other motorists," crows a third, about a simulated police antenna stuck to a car roof with a suction cup.

All this implies that customers should not only buy what they may not need or want, but should do so entirely to affect someone else.

In Second Place?

(Randall Henderson in Desert Magazine)

In one of the chamber of commerce brochures gotten out by a Southern California community I read: "The cul-tural life of a community holds a place of scarcely less importance than that of the commercial."

Unfortunately, this is a viewpoint held by well-meaning men in nearly every community — dollars first, the art of living second. Basically, that is the philosophy of Karl Marx— that if man's economic interests are well served, then cul-tural man will emerge as a matter of course. That is the materialistic basis of socialism, and there is increasing evi-dence that it is more and more becoming the creed of capitalsim

I know one small community which recently raised a storm of protest against the levying of a small tax for the con-struction of a new library — and then endorsed the raising of a $20,000 fund for advertising ballyhoo to publicize the town's commercial opportunities.

For my part I cling to the faith that if the chamber of commerce would devote its energies and resources to the cultural aspects of community development, the cash registe would take care of itself. I have confidence that eventually more enlightened generation of businessmen will undrstand this sponsible citizen in the city would follow him in his preach-ing." And the Mayor also may be correct in saying that if the people of New York were left to their own devices they would stone him out of town.

Faced with the possibility that a riot might result from Rockwell's planned Fourth of July rally, the Mayor announced that Rockwell's application would be denied.

A case like Rockwell's puts to the hardest kind of test the effectiveness of the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of speech and "the right of the people peaceably to assemble."

For Nazism in any form is nauseating and repulsive not only to New Yorkers but to all intelligent and decent Amer-icans. But the fact remains that those who style themselves Nazis have the right under our Constitution to a free expres-sion of opinion. True freedom of speech means not merely freedom for accepted opinions but freedom for the thought we hate. And the persons who hold unpopular views also have the right of peaceable assembly.

In denying Rockwell's application, Mayor Wagner has declined to give an unpopular group the right to meet for fear of violence against it on the part of its enemies.

It would be foolish to minimize the problem that Rock-well's rally would present for New York police. But Mayor Wagner would have been better advised if he had followed the counsel of Dr. Joachim Prinz, president of the American Jewish Congress and an expelle from Nazi Germany. Dr. Prinz had urged that Rockwell's right to speak be respected but that police should be alerted to arrest him if he or his followers caused a disturbance. Surely New York's police force is suffi-ciently competent in handling crowds-even hostile ones-to deal with this situation.

Such action would have robbed Rockwell of the right to claim that he was being victimized in his effort to convert others to his way of thinking. It would also have given him an opportunity to show his true colors of hatemonger for

LETTERS

Seeks Data On McDowell

Editor, The Press:

Charlottesville, Va

I am making a study of the life of Silas McDowell (1795-1879), who lived in Macon County from 1830 on. A very ver-satile and imaginative man, Mr. McDowell was perhaps best known for his writings on mountain scenery and for originat-ing the "thermal belt" concept. I am now making a search of the literature, but I should deeply appreciate hearing from anyone who can throw additional light on this fascinating figure

GARY S. DUNBAR Assistant Professor, Department of Geography University of Virginia.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Looking Backward Through the Files of The Press

65 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK (1895)

Clean up your premises and prevent sickness.

A large proportion of our colored population went to Rabun (County, Ga.) Saturday to attend a big meeting. A company of Franklin's elite young people went picnicking to Burningtown Falls on the Fourth. Mr. W. C. Hough, of Conn., arrived last week and will spend the summer at the gem mines on Cowee. The town council should take some steps to have our streets cleaned up.

35 YEARS AGO

(1925) Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Peek spent the week end in Macon County and left Monday for their home in Sunburst

15 YEARS AGO

(1945)

say?

PERSONAL

The answer may vary from perords for any of us to say are:

the time. We know it in our hearts. We are reminded of it by the high price we must pay for

But to admit it to the other

It is a confession not only to our

No words come more easily, and error. It suggests that, since we fellow - that take's some doing.

"I am wrong".

our mistakes.

inferior to him.

really learn the lesson.

for most of us so say?

"You are wrong!"

in such a rush, as these:

By WEIMAR JONES

What are the hardest of all neighboring county, lived away yords for the human tongue to many years, and then came back home for a visit, strikes a nostalgic note in a personal letter:

son to person; but if we were all "For those who remember the completely honest with ourselves, I tranguil days when houses were "For those who remember the suspect we'd agree: The hardest widely spaced and farming was a genuine if non-lucrative occupa tion, it disturbs to see what in-We probably are wrong; for nost of us are wrong much of dustries have done to a green valley.' Most of us are too quick to criticize and too slow to praise the other fellow. I think perhaps that has come to be particularly true in the case of public officials. Not that those who hold public office should be immune to criticism - far from are wrong, the other fellow may it! be right, and hence that we are But how often do you and damn these public servants, with-out real thought! and how rarely Most of us spend a lifetime trying to learn to say those three do we tell them when they have done a good job! Surely we should words, "I am wrong" - and never give them an occasional pat on

And what are the easiest words the back. I had that brought home to me only the other day.

A member of Congress took a stand that I not only thought was right, but that I was sure required Maybe the other fellow is courage. His attitude was, wrong. Well, why not give him "I'm doing this thing because I know time and let him find it out for, it is right; if it isn't popular, himself? Chances are, he knows that's just too bad."

it already — but just doesn't like I am neither one of his conto admit it. Why then, tell him? stituents nor a member of his As a matter of fact, there is nothing we could say that would party, but I was so impressed, I wrote him a few lines of apmake him deny more emphatically preciation. His reply struck an althat he is wrong than those three words: "You are wrong". most plaintive note There's nothing that could make

After thanking me for writing, he commented: him more uncomfortable; or that

"Those of us who are engaged in public service are frequently subjected to criticism on the part of the press and constituents. This is quite proper and I am not making any complaints about it. However, an occasional word of appreciation or at least under-standing is welcome and helpful." After reading that, I made up

"You are wrong!" That's one way to avoid saying could make him like us less.

Yet, by saying it, we suggest that his being wrong makes us right, and so makes us superior.

We just can't resist that. So most of us go through life repeating, over and over, those unfortunate my mind I'd redouble my efforts to do what I think every news-paper editor should do: Vigorousthose words that are so hard to say: 'I am wrong."

. . . A friend who was reared in a

FROM MODEL T

How Auto Service Has Evolved! W. CURTIS RUSS

There was a time back in the special grease for many of the Model T Ford era when operating parts.

a service station consisted of know ing how to turn the gasoline pump handle; fill up the radiator; put the much publicized "Free Air" on an inner tube. Changing the 30 by $3\frac{1}{2}$ clincher tires was a matquick twist of the wrist of the pump handle.

to get it off the rim. Tires were usually gauged by a Many young people today never mere kick from the toe of the saw a "Free Air" sign at a service shoe, and the specialist could tell by the thud of the tire if it needed station Back in the early days of cars, more air. If it were a real hot day, most tires were inflated with a chances are 1 to 10 the tire was hand pump and motorists seeing termed OK.

a "Free Air" sign would drive in Jacking up a car in the old days for service and gas. Many stations to change tires was done about supplied the hand pump and theas quickly as today. Usually there customer supplied the elbow-grease was one strong man about the for inflating tires. station who would back up to the Changing oil back then was not car, grab the spokes of the wheel routine. You just kept adding oil and with a sigh of great strain in fact, many cars used oil so fast lift the corner of the car while an that the supply in the crankcase attendant slipped a large block of was always almost new. wood under the axle. was always almost new.

words:

ly damn the deed, if it seems wrong; but be slow to damn the man.

In Waynesville Mountaineer

Service stations have changed a lot since the day when the attedant lifted the front seat of the Model T, and using a special ruler, in the tires, and slap a quick patch measured the amount of gas in the tank, and put in $2 worth, which was done by so many turns

These are only the latest in a long list of wins that go back over a period of a decade or so. It has, in fact, become almost routine for the Macon County farm boys to bring back honors from almost every competition, near and far.

These things do not just happen, though. They are the result of a lot of intelligent effort by the boys; of a lot of intelligent leadership by their teacher, Mr. Wayne Proffitt; and, back of all that, by a lot of dedicated and intelligent training by their parents.

Without subtracting any credit from the honors that have come so deservedly to the boys, it is not amiss to remember that a salute to them also is a salute to the homes and the Macon County community that produced them.

Cart In Front?

We in the United States must produce more wealth, we are told. And not only must our gross material product this year be greater than last year's - we must speed up our rate of increase.

But why? Why must we produce more wealth, and produce it at a constantly faster rate?

Haven't we more now than we know what to do with? What about all the gold we have stored underground? What about all the farm surpluses that are a burden? What about the ever-growing number of gadgets that are nice but not necessary?

In the end, will it be dollars that win the cold war? Will it be goods? Will it even be the number

Free Speech For Everybody

(Winston-Salem Journal)

Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York faced an agonizing decision in ruling on the application of George Lincoln Rockwell, self-styled commandant of the American Nazi party, to hold a rally in Union Square.

The Mayor knew that New Yorkers have no patience with Rockwell or his teachings. As Mr. Wagner said, "not a decent, re-

ROLE OF THE UNIVERSITY

W. E. (Gene) Baldwin, co-owner of Baldwin-Liner Market and Grocery, has been appointed by the two members of the Board of County Commissioners as chairman of that board, to fill the unexpired term of the chairman, Gus Leach, following the latter's death.

The first service in the new St. John's Episcopal Church, on Cartoogechaye, is to be held Sunday morning, July 15.

5 YEARS AGO

(1955)

Alabama's Gov. James Folsom and his family have rented the Ronald Baty home on Mirror Lake, in Highlands, for the summer. Gov. Folsom plans to spend the week ends there with his family.

Temperatures here during the past week ranged from a high of 89 to a low of 64.

Greasing cars then was also The same blocks of wood were simple...a little in the hub caps, often used in getting the cars some on the spindle bolts, and astarted — jack up the rear wheels, dash of old crankcase oil on the throw the car in gear and start springs, and she was ready for cranking. The car in gear served as a fly wheel in helping turn the road.

Nowadays, one has to be the motor Nowadays, one has to be in that failed, a little extra mechanic, oil specialist, a grease If that failed, a little extra analyist, an electronics expert, and priming by pouring about a tea-a few other things, besides a gen-spoon of gasoline under each eral walking bureau of informa.spark plug would usually put life in the stubborn car. tion, to give service.

Greasing is done by charts, with Greasing is done by charts, with cars then often stopped dead still in a heavy rain, or after plowing through deep water on the streets or highways. Water around the plugs would short out the motor and then came the tedious period of drying out.

The events of the early days of motoring came to mind, as we watched service station men check the many details it takes today

ESSENTIAL THING IS THE TEACHER

> The essential event in the eduin the classroom. Administration, building, maintenance, all the acriculum, however sound in theory, riculum Survey Committee.

To Find Truth, Men Must Be Free To Examine The New, Re-examine The Old

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is-from an address by Chancellor Aycock, of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, delivered at a recent alumni luncheon there.)

On a cool October day in 1957 when I took the oath of office of chancellor, I deemed it important to express my convictions about October, 1957. On this campus and the importance of freedom. I was throughout North Carolina we political - both direct and in knowledge but extends to all. aware that during the long his- have certain fundamental freeaware that during the long his have certain fundamental free direct — which can be brought An institution engaged in higher dome of democracy and a place in which to bear on people engaged in seek- education cannot be a university the weak can grow strong and the periodic attacks on its freedom. speech, freedom of the press and ing and stating the truth. In 1925, as some of you will recall, freedom of religion. These fundaopposition arose in the state to mental freedoms protect teachers, opposition arose in the state to mental freedoms protect teachers, some of the lecturers who appear authors, editors, reporters, pub- legal ilimitations such as the laws cause it is suitable to some in- vironment of freedom is always orate school system exist only to ed on the campus and to certain lishers, broadcasters, and motion of libel, slander and the use of dividual or group, however highly an erratic one, sometimes a turbu-make this daily encounter conarticles published in the Journal picture producers from controls public buildings, but we reject placed. By what authority, may I lent one, and frequently a disturb- sistently and consecutively signifiof Social Forces.

resolution was introduced in the state the truth. Indeed, they pro- publication, teaching and learn- youth of our land? General Assembly which was dettect each of you and every citizen ing. If we do not reject these pres-signed to restrict the freedom throughout this commonwealth. sures, we forfeit our claim to be to teach and publish. The alumni These freedoms are not abso a university. and friends of the University lute. There are limitations, such A true university must seek out, must provide an environment in out the length and breadth of this port of the San Francisco Cur-These freedoms are not abso- a university. joined hands with President Chase as the laws of libel and slander examine, assemble and interpret which diversity, controversy and land.

versity than to kill its spirit

Today I feel impelled to repeat unlawful means.

By William B. Aycock

and mothered by a vision of free- cational process is the encounter if it undertakes to fix or freeze the weak can grow great. The pro-We recognize and accept the knowledge or doctrine merely be- cess of youth maturing in an en-Yet, generation after generation can supply the want of competent. History does not record a single of young men and women have teachers, an orderly classroom, successful effort to fix or freeze gone forth from this campus to and students eager to seek acaand the faculty and saved the which apply to all and statutory facts. It must seek new ideas, new tolerance prevail. It is not ex-institution from a sentence which prohibitions against the use of forms of knowledge, new values pected that every person within or would have imposed a slow death; public buildings by any person and new artistic standards in or- without a university will agree to properly service a car. a death even more horrible than for the purpose of advocating, ad- der that mankind may continue with the views of every speaker the tragedy of 1871. It is far bet- vising or teaching a doctrine that to grow in understanding and wis- or teacher who appears on the te rto close the doors of a Uni- the government should be over- dom. A part of this creative mis- campus. It is imperative, however, thrown by force, violence or any sion is the duty to examine the that the university be free to bases, the foundations, and the as- listen to differing views on con-

the substance of what I said in October, 1957. On this campus and there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not there are pressures of various knowledge rests. This duty is not the present the substance of the day. direct - which can be brought An institution engaged in higher dom. It has become an instrument of the teacher with his students

f Social Forces. Moreover, in the same year a with their mission to seek and to sure which would fetter research, found the final truth for the of their own youth have faded. riculum, however sound in theory.