

BRIEFS

Dr. Matthews, a dentist from Lillington, has opened an office for the practice of his profession in Dr. Rosser's office. He comes well recommended and the Pilot wishes the young man a successful business.

Henry Ford's plan to get milk without cows isn't new. The Swiss have been depending on goats for years.

The month of May this year will go down in history as the one in which we mixed mowing the lawn with building a fire.

Our idea of a forward-looking man is one who can see beyond that part of a mail-order: ad which reads "Don't Send a Penny."

Maybe the reason Adam blamed Eve for his meanness is because he didn't have a moving picture actress around to blame it on.

Ask anyone in this section what was the best thing he saw while away from home and he'll quickly tell you it was a ticket back to Vass.

One nice thing about having only one necktie is you don't have to fight with your wife over which one you're going to wear to a funeral.

The Vass young man who wants to be certain of getting a good wife will pick one who pays more attention to stove lids than she does to eye lids.

To our way of thinking, it isn't a question whether skirts are worn long enough. Even when they're worn long enough, they're too short to begin with.

An English church now furnishes cough drops free. Presume that is to prevent tickling throats while the congregation or such portions of it as dozes, is asleep.

Wonder whether Carpentier, in asking for permission to keep a gun in his training quarters for target practice, is trying to get Dempsey's goat before the fight begins?

If you are fat, married or a cusser, you are probably more honest than if you're not, which shows that even virtue has its own drawbacks.

The trouble with most Vass fishermen who come in to tell us about the big one that got away is they don't leave any of the little ones to prove they've really been fishing.

From the divorce suit testimony we occasionally read in daily papers it must be stylish in New York to grab the first thing that comes along, marry it and then settle for it afterward.

From the results obtained it looks as though a woman going through the curriculum of a beauty parlor graduates with her marceled hair circum-bendibus and her face rigorously embossed.

A man of our acquaintance tells us he needs but two events now to make him die happy and contented. One is to see Carpentier beat Dempsey, the other to read of George Harvey making another speech. Casting up his average, we figure out he must be about 100 per cent American.

FAREWELL

By R. GORDON THOMAS
Farewell to you old world,
Where I spent many a happy day;
Roaming your forests and freedom,
Where nature is always at play,
Farewell to the swimming hole,
And the waters blue and deep;
Where there at a certain hour:
The gang was sure to meet.
Farewell again I bid you,
And all these I love:
For the sun daily assures us,
There's a better land above.

A surgeon removed a quarter that had been in a girl's throat for four years. If she is a singer she has probably lost some of those silvery tones.—Ex.

Incidentally, we defy any doctor to remove 25 cents from any portion of our anatomy.—Phila. Inquirer.

Yes, and if any doctor comes snooping around the Pilot man trying to remove 25 cents from his body, he will be a candidate for the undertaker.

Personally, we can never outgrow our wonder at the marvelous perspicacity of the "other woman" in a domestic triangle, who always "understands" the man in the case so much better than the wife who has lived with him for years.

READY FOR THE

By Dr. CHARLES M.

Editor Pilot, Dear Sir: the following piece of poetry is a valuable and interesting paper.

Don't be a foggy, but think
If women's dresses are out
If girls are bound to show
I'm glad my eyes are mad
And if they wear their dress
I'm always ready for the
I want to see, I must confess
For life is short as well as

CHILDREN NEED

Much of the work done in the Home Department is in the care of children who stand in need of an orphan have to be cared for in homes. Some children's environments have to be changed for and placed in better environments. This work is done through general public knowledge of it. Several have helped; others will receive several on the way bright, healthy, capable, ranging in age from a twelve or thirteen years.

There is one case, a girl capable, growing up in that is unfavorable. She is placed in a training school will get the advantage and good training. It is a thing to place her there if the people are poor. If someone like to invest $200.00 is a good opportunity.

If there is a home in that has a place for these little ones would be in.

Take it up with the Department of Welfare.

KEEP TELLING

Here's one little business to drop for the benefit of those who have something to say that most people can't say unless they're told it. You got to make them understand you want them to buy it, buy and find out you're right on buying it—and lots along with it.

The way to create a sale is to keep telling the story of why you're in a place where they want to sell it to will see it. Press it upon their minds the story fairly. If the story turned out hadn't been name wouldn't be familiar. A woman and child in the land have got to tell the man to that the thing you've got expect him to buy it. A paper experimenting have proven paper is the best medium reaching him and holding
