Mrs. W. M. Wooten spent a few days of this week in Sanford visiting relatives.

The name Kitchen Spring, begins with a capital. It does not get its name from the culinary kitchen. It is famous for its unfailing source of ice cold water. For the picturesqueness of the location, and for the grand picnics that were held there in the early seventies when that community was thickly populated with the families of the McNeills, Johnsons, McQueens, Monroes, Brittons, Shaws, Arnettes, Fergusons, McIvers, McDonalds, Gilchrist and Arnolds. The place is historical because the first court that was ever held in Moore county was held at the home of Kinchen Kitchen, and the man from whom the spring gets its name.

Miss Mollie McKeithan, of Aberdeen, visited relatives here last week. Mrs. Mollie Person, of Carthage, visited friends and relatives in town last week.

Mrs. J. D. McLean and little niece, Margaret, are visiting the family of Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Joyner at Stem.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec McPherson and children, Mrs. H. P. McPherson and Miss Annie Pierce motored to Mt. Vernon Springs Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McDonald and children and the correspondent spent Sunday with the family of Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron at their home, Blues Farm, near Montrose. In mentioning Blues Farm, I might use a slang expression and say "Nuff-sed."

Everyone knows that a Blue farm is among the best in the state and all a farm should be, especially with a superintendent and manager like Mr. Cameron. Twenty-five years ago Mr. Cameron and his bride, Miss Lily Belle Wooten, went to this farm to begin their start in life. They have prospered. They were faithful to the interests of a good and honorable man who gave him a chance for a start in life. Mr. Cameron now owns land and has several acres under cultivation. Fourteen acres are planted in watermelons. They have a family of three fine looking boys and two handsome daughters. Only twenty people partook of the bountiful dinner that was served of fresh vegetables, chicken, pickles, milk, butter, honey, cake, coffee and watermelon. Mrs. Cameron took me into her large cool airy kitchen and showed me her cook range she had bought with "turkey money." She said this year had been unfavorable for turkeys; she only had twenty-seven, a small number for what she usually raises each year.

The Methodist social at the Pinebluff Inn was a success socially and financially. All enjoyed a pleasant evening. Mr. Butner presented the ladies with some delicious watermelons which were served with the ice cream and cake. The Methodist Ladies Aid will hold an ice cream and cake sale every other Wednesday evening during the hot weather. The Baptist Ladies Aid will hold forth the intervening week. Next Friday evening they will serve ice cream and cake on the Pinebluff Inn porches. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Admiral William Nelson Little, father of our townsman and ex-Mayor B. J. Little, and the Misses Gertrude and Margaret N. Little, of Sanford, was married in New York the 14th, to Miss Francis Winefred Pond, a relative of Harriett Beacher Stowe, and Henry Ward Beacher. They will sail for London, England on the 18th of July where they will reside for a while.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Guile have returned from their wedding trip at Wrightsville Beach, and are at home in one of Albert Austin's cottages on Boston Ave., where his mother, Mrs. Guile, had everything ready for house-keeping, and the larder well supplied with groceries and good things to eat. Their friends wish them a peaceful, prosperous matrimonial journey.

Miss Elnor Cadwalladar left last Thursday evening for her home in Titusville, Pa., much improved in health.

Miss Nannie Lee Caldwell, of Southern Pines, visited her friend, Miss Bettie Barrett last week.

CHIROPRACTIC IS A SCIENCE

Science is largely theoretical. It starts with ignorance as a base and develops through imagination and knowledge.

It is of two classes,—true and conjectural. True science is the knowledge of facts, and has for its handmaid philosophy, which is the knowledge of principle. With the use of true science and philosophy man ascends to the zenith of his intellectual ability in his study of questions of life.

Chiropactic is a true science, because it deals with facts. It is a philosophy, because it reckons with the knowledge of principles. As a science and a philosophy its value is enhanced by the common-sense basis of its ground work as theories of life study. It reasons matters out from the common-sense basis and reaches its conclusions of fact to establish its science and philosophy in truth, which is uniform and indivisible, and this truth it proves by the fruit it bears.

A science that is so-called and proves few or none of its promises with facts that will hold the favor of those to whom it appeals as a true science, naturally will meet with and feel the effect of much skepticism.

There are some who doubt Chiropactic, but those who make use of it know its verity and have as the basis of their faith the fact that of its efficacy as a health agent.

Try Chiropactic for your HEALTH needs. Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free.

The Time To Buy Building Supplies

Cessation of building in the big cities has had the effect of steadying prices for a time, and supplies of lumber and material are keeping up with requirements. It is likely that prices have reached the bottom, and that as builders see this a resumption of building will take place again before long. It is wise to get in what you need before the turn comes again.

BIG BUYERS AFTER CEMENT

Big purchases of cement, like those to the highway commission, are temporarily satisfying these big consumers. When they come in the market again they will be calling for big stocks. Better get your wants cared for before that time arrives.

NOW is the time to buy Builders' Supplies, and the place is—
