

CAMERON

Through the courtesy of Mrs. George Matthews and her young son, Mr. Guy Matthews, the correspondent once again had the pleasure of attending the home coming at old Bethesda Church near Aberdeen. It was a great pleasure to once again see and grasp the hands of old friends.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. R. A. McLeod, pastor at Galatea Church, who took for his subject: "Soul Investment," his text being: "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul, or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul." The sermon was largely addressed to the younger generation. In beginning his discourse Rev. McLeod spoke reminiscently, saying he was baptized at that altar by the sainted Martin McQueen, although he did not go out from that church (Union claims Rev. R. A. McLeod) he remembered attending services there with his parents, he remembered the old "Stand" on the hill, the spring of water, the big oak tree, and the large crowds who attended at Communion services. Rev. Mr. Gaston as before made the address of welcome. One remark he made struck me very forcibly. He said many of the older generation came to see the graves of revered and loved friends who were buried in the cemeteries which is quite true. Oh, yes! We had the old-time singing without any musical instrument, led again by Mr. Scott Poole, of Raeford.

Mr. J. McN. Johnson read the poem "Auld Bethesda Kirk Yark" that was sent in last week to The Pilot. I referred to Mr. Johnson as the Bard (meaning poet) of Aberdeen, but the printer caused it to read Board of Aberdeen; a bad mistake for a poem of such sublime sentiment. Mr. Johnson did not intend it to be published. It was sent to me as an invitation to attend, and I now almost regret sending without first asking his consent. However, a poem so sublime should be in the treasure box of all the homes of those whose memories carry them back to the hallowed ground of old Bethesda Church.

Just at the close of the exercises, and the dinner served, the rain began, breaking up the social feature of the occasion. Dear old Bethesda Church, of so many pleasant memories of youthful days! A new generation is coming on, and the old passeth.

Sunday morning after the second primary of July 5th (Saturday) some of our citizens were crowing like a rooster, others were like the old crippled gander that was "outed."

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Hartsell and daughter, Miss Annie, have returned from a delightful visit of six weeks in Florida, where they were guests of Rev. Hartsell's two sons' Messrs A. D. Rev. M. D. McNeill filled his regular appointment at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

An old friend whom I met at the home coming at Bethesda last Sunday, said to me "I am mighty sorry you quit writing for the Moore County News." I said "You take The Pilot. It is the best paper in the county. Occasionally there will be a mistake like Board for Bard, Immortality for Immortality, but that may be the fault of the correspondents—some who still write long hand, and use a stub."

At the home of the officiating minister, Rev. M. D. McNeill, on Saturday evening, July 5th, Mr. Neill McKeithen, of Vass, and Miss Louise Harrell, of Petersburg, Va., were united in marriage in the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives. The bride was very lovely in a costume of black and white with hat and accessories to match. She carried a lovely arm bouquet of valley lilies and white rose buds. After congratulations, the happy couple left for the honeymoon somewhere. The bride is, or was, a nurse in training at the McConnel Hospital. Mr. McKeithen is a young man of sterling qualities and a prosperous merchant of Vass.

Those present: Mrs. M. D. McNeill, Mrs. Charles Patch, Jr., of Southern Pines; Mr. and Mrs. Thrower, of Southern Pines; Miss Mayme Mc-

JUST A FEW MORE DAYS

If it is dry goods or anything that you want to eat or wear, it is going at some price. How can you let such an opportunity pass your door without buying your food and clothing for months to come? Get busy, people, your chance is here. Your dollar will work overtime. Your savings will be great. Nothing reserved. Positively all must go.

Don't you miss it; don't you do it.
