From Raeford High school, comes to me another announcement from a member of the graduating class, Archie McKeithen. It seems to me but yesterday that I spent a few years in Raeford, when Marie Blue, and Archie McKeithen, "little boy and girl were they," would often come to see me, and beg for a story. When I had told them all I had ever heard, or read about, they kept me busy manufacturing others. One of their favorite stories that had to be repeated on every occasion was "The ghost woman under the old pear tree." I wonder if the young graduates have forgotten.

AN ILLUMINATING NEWSPAPER

On Sunday the Charlotte Observer which is always one of the best newspapers of the South, added to its prestige by the publication of a special edition that if cut into book size pages would amount to a volume of ten or twelve hundred pages. The edition was filled with stuff about North Carolina, and was the most ambitious thing ever attempted by any North Carolina paper so far as The Pilot can recall. It was given wide circulation, and will have a great influence in telling the world what this section of the country is doing and intends to do.

Home demonstration club women of Nash County are building and furnishing their own club rooms, reports Mrs. Effie Vine Gordon, home agent.

Low-cost Transportation Star Cars

I have recently secured the agency for STAR and DURANT cars for this section. Will be glad to demonstrate.
