high carry

Black;

Solid

m the r fall

Town

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1925

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00

MUSICAL FESTIVAL AT SANDHILL FAIR

Chorus Of One Hundred and Twenty-Five Voices to Sing Rose Maiden

(Bion H. Butler)

Tuesday night I dropped in at the Frederick H. Cowen's cantata, the "Rose Maiden." To my mind this years old he became director of the winter. Edinburg Academy of Music, and five years later he succeeded Sir Arthur OXFORD SINGING CLASS Sullivan as conductor of the London Philharmonic, and from that time on his triumphs have been numerous. He has a long list of famous compositions to his credit, but the "Rose Maiden" day night at 8 o'clock. The work is given first rank by many of his these boys and girls are doing has admirers. At any rate it is one of become so familiar to this section that the most entertaining things musically the announcement of their coming that will be heard in North Carolina should be about all that needs to be this as to Charlie Picquet's ability in this line is in aid of the institution. as a trainer and conductor. Were it The school at Oxford is one of the not that a question of his family's most successful of its kind in the gathered up this fall a chorus, as I of the state. have said, of 125 voices, and the large bulk of these are of better than ordinary ability. They have taken hold of the work, for they have the full confidence in their leader that inspires them to effort, and it is rather surprising to see the progress they are cantata for the purpose of getting a line of the manner in which the singers and the conductor handled the work, and if my advice is worth any-

8:20 o'clock, will be full to the loft. munity of three or four villages, far several big jobs like the $100,000 that from any big center that might be has gone into rebuilding the Holly Inn, warrant a pretentious thing of this much in improvements in the Carolina, choral singing we have the chance to of them, and the Pinehurst Warehear this fine presentation. It is not houses and changes at the railroad. possible that such an entertainment could be offered in any but two or building of the Citizens Bank and choirs that volunteer. Then home, as three of the bigger cities of the state, and even at that they would be rare.

It is hardly worth while to go into a detailed description of either the cantata or the work. The cantata is one of the best that Cowen produced, or recently completed. Dr. Dickie is and he is deservedly famous for half building half a dozen new cottages out a dozen operas, two oratorios and a number of cantatas and other compositions. It has a marked simplicity in much of its chorus as well as in its solos, and its harmonies at times are impressive in this respect. Its movement will probably be more intelligible to the average listener than the oratorios of last year were, and altogether I imagine it will be more generally comprehended and admired.

The singers Tuesday night showed tion, and with several rehearsals yet the farms it is likey that three-quaruntil the entertainment is presented on the stage I am looking for them to show a proficiency that not many in the audience will be able to distinguish from that of professionals. individual performers as I sat off at one side to be out of the way, but one or two sopranos showed a wonderful power. Miss Erskine at the piano also evidenced a command of her scores that is highly clever. On the night of the performance the chorus will be assisted by Grady Miller and Dr. Bates, of Greensboro, bass and tenor solo singers of reputation, and by the Carolina orchestra and the organ. I am told that a large delegation is coming down from Greensboro to hear Congregational church where Charlie the singing, as the reputation of the Picquet is training his chorus to sing Sandhill chorus has gone out into the surrounding communities, and a number of visitors are expected from the cantata, which is to be sung at the other towns. While the fair this year musical festival of the Sandhill fair has advanced to many new and I think is likely to find a greater popularity higher lines this chorus work by Mr. than the weightier choruses that Mr. Picquet and his group of local singers Picquet and his singers have given strikes me as the most outstanding of good for the community which on the previous occasions. In turn- single feature of the whole affair. It ing from the profound religious work is so much in advance of anything that treasury of its own, nor indeed has it of Mozart and Handel and Hayden to is ordinarily to be found in a small ever had a slightest need for one. that of Cowen nothing is sacrificed community, and of such a high in the material that is given the quality in both voice, training and the chorus to exhibit their ability, for selections attempted that it stands in Frederick H. Cowen is one of the fore- a class by itself. To my notion this most composers and directors of the is about the finest thing that is to present time. In 1882, when only 30 be encountered in the Sandhills this

AT ABERDEEN MONDAY

The Oxford Singing Class will be at the High school in Aberdeen Monsaid of them. They represent the or-I have expressed my opinion before phanage at Oxford, and their work health brought him to the Sandhills state, turning out a large number of where he caught that Sandhill fever boys and girls who on going into the that has held so many others in this world's activities are trained young section he would be in some broader men and women who become useful field. But he is here, and there is no members of society. They put on a use to say anything to encourage him program that has always been highly away. The main thing is that while appreciated and The Pilot is always he is here his remarkable work should glad to make the announcement of be appreciated and enjoyed. He has their coming to any place in this part making. I listened through the entire Pinehurst and Southern Pines Hammerin' Nails—New Structures Going Up

The amount of new work in buildthing the theatre at Pinehurst on the ing around the Sandhills has been big night of Wednesday, October 28, at this year. The total amount of new construction at Pinehurst is figured

Over at Southern Pines the new Trust company is one of the most pre- the glow of the west tints the blue tentious and impressive buildings in of the ridges with the mellowness of this part of the state, and it gives a different tone to the street. All over locks about laughing eyes; perhaps the town new houses are under way at his hospital. A number of new houses are projected and will be carried on during the winter. It is doubtful if so many new buildings have been in progress in Southern Pines in a long time as are now under way.

At Aberdeen the builder is active while the new hotel at Pinebluff adds another $100,000 down in that section, with a number of smaller jobs around the edges of all of the towns. Taking the towns of the Sandhills and the new a remarkable control of their execu- building on the outlying lands and on ters of a million dollars will not more than cover the new work that has been done or that is in progress.

On Wednesday of this week, John Warren Watson, of the John Warren I was not able to recognize any of the Watson Company, Philadelphia, pur-(Continued on page eight)

AT CAMERON HILI

Gathering of The People From Wide Territory For Annual Picnic

(L. M. McDonald)

There exists an eminently successwidely recognized institution whose beginning the younger people do not recall. It is one which has never had a chief executive; secretary the hill below him and lauded to the or other official, and during its existence although it has contributed to treasuries of church and school and accumulated an immeasurable measure gives it life, it has never had a

This unique institution is the annual picnic at old Cameron Hill, picnic, community reunion, homecoming or what you will. One who has attended one day there will need no name by which to know it.

Its life is the old Scotch spirit that lingers yet around the prominent, high-shouldering red hill that first caught the eye of the wandering hielander weary of seacoast and the sameness of the coastal plain, a spirit that will live until the last Cameron Fair, said; "In all of my experience, of that ilk has gone from the Hill. Its success depends alone upon the clannish friendliness and the love of home- fair. Among the largest fairs held on land peculiar to Carolina folk of the this continent this Fall. I cannot, at Sandhills; its continuance has been this moment, recall one that would be and is assured by the wish within each heart, within which is flowing the Gaelic blood, to assemble again with the Camerons, the McLeans, the Darrochs, Stewarts, Shaws, McKays and Campbells near the old kirkyard where their past generations are sleeping; where the first grave was filled by a child whose body was brought on horseback from the level reaches of Long Street twenty miles away by a father who wished it to rest upon the crest of the one great hill of the New Land that "How does he do it?" But this is a he had found, as his sires were resting upon the bens (mountains) of his ain countrie. There they gather, where the old Plank Road crossed, against the spot where the mail stage driver winded his horn across the backs of his four horses as they thundered down the steep slope to signal his approach to the old Confederate postoffice of Johnsonville; there they walk to and fro among the throng that increases during the morning and decreases with the day. Watching for the old friends that they know will be there ere the day has gone; missing with the one touch of sadness that the day ever brings the few who will come Here we are, a small rural com- around $375,000, which includes no more. No exacting program to adhere to; no chain of ritual to hamper the freedom of the day. Greeting of expected to bring out patronage to $20,000 in the Pine Crest, nearly as the old to the old; of the young to the young; of all to all. Handshakes sort, and solely because Charlie $50,000 in the Market Square new free from all taint of formality, with Picquet and those who will sing under building and extension, a dozen new sometimes a catch of the throat the his direction have an interest in houses runing up to $20,000 for some while. A table overflowing with the best of a goodly land. Informal, sincere talks from pulpit-side or entryway. Songs, simply thrilling, by

> LADY RACE DRIVER TO BE AT SANDHILL FAIR

gold, to remember perhaps curling grey heads bearing none too firmly the weight of years. Always to look forward to the day of the succeeding year when the gathering will be again.

One there was who, not by appoint-

Mlle. LeCosta, Europe's Greatest Daredevil, To Participate in Races At Sandhill Fair

auto race meet that is to be a feature be undertaken. The commissioners hang over until another meeting. October 27-28-29 is Mlle. Cozette Le- rection and were with it. Mr. Kimball Gene Stevens, said he had come down Costa daring girl race driver hailed as will have more to say to the people for a few days, and while here he champion lady race driver of Europe later. and Europe's greatest daredevil.

Miss LeCosta made a tour of (Continued on page eight)

ment but by common understanding without need of formal request or special appointment, always stood to talk to a hushed and intent assemblage; the "silver-tounged orator of Harnett," Colonel Dan Hugh McLean, whose head teemed with the traditions and the history of the people who surrounded him and whose heart went in earnestness with the words that tumbled like a silver torrent from his lips whenever he told the old lore; outlined the coming of the clans after Culodden, or spoke of Flora Mac-Donald and her home at the foot of skies her loyalty and that of her countrymen for the bonnie Prince Charlie. But his presence is only in memory now. MacLean has gone to the gathering of his chiefs in the Far Country.

Old friendships, true ideals, loved memories and fond traditions are never forgotten or forsaken by these people sprung from the race of "Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled," who have grown up in the romantic envi-(Continued on page eight)

AUTO POLO AGAIN AT SANDHILL FAIR

A veteran showman, in going over the programme arranged by Secretary Picquet for this year's Sandhill I have never seen so many first class attractions crowded into a four-day willing to risk the enormous expenditure necessary to secure the headliners that are coming to Pinehurst, and some of these fairs run for a full

For many years, Mr. Picquet has kept several jumps ahead of the other fellows in the matter of picking good attractions, but this year he has left the whole crew so many ages behind that they'll never catch up. Many, many times, showmen have asked; mystery so deep that even those who (Continued on page 8)

Tubercular Sanatorium, Forester and Board of Conservation

at their Carthage meeting ventured ing some of their neighbors for coninto new lines in the creation of a tributions for this purpose. Any sum fund to help maintain a forest warden, is available, as several small contria sanatorium for the indigent tuber- butions will stake one boy or girl, as cular patients, and a Board of Con- well as one big one will. Money can servation and Development. These be given or sent to Dan McKeithen at three things mark a positive step for- Aberdeen or Richard Tufts at Pineward in county work, to which might hurst, and any sum will be a deserved be also added the appointment of W. C. Donaldson, another rural police-a contract to build it at once. It will strangers are inside the gates. not be a very big hospital, but it will be a beginning, and will care for at bring up that land speculation subject, least some of the invalids who have and undertook to show that Bion no other place of refuge.

ville, Mr. Kimball, appeared before one side or the other of the question the board and urged the appropriation that Newcomb arrived at a point of a small sum to help secure a fire where his hearers did not know which warden for the county, and after side of any of the questions he was on, making his case $500 was granted, and fearing he would start to tell to be met by additional sums from about his uncle in Canada Talbot In addition to the half score of men | the state and other sources, and orga- Johnson shut him off and adjourned drivers who have signed up for the nized work against forest fires will the meeting. The land question will attraction of the Sandhill Fair on thought this a move in the right di-

Following the lead of Governor Mc-Lean in the attitude he has taken re-Western Canada early this year and garding the state Board of Consermanaged to win three out of five vation and Development the com-(Continued on page eight)

School Affairs Prominent Among The List of Plans

At the Wednesday dinner of the Kiwanis club in Southern Pines one of the most aggressive programs ever introduced unfolded itself as the meeting advanced. The thing started with a letter from Charlie Picquet who asked the backing of the people more vigorously in the production of the pageant at the Sandhill fair, saying that the pageant is one of the best advertising features the community can present, and that to the big crowds that gather it is a forcible bit of information as to the neighborhood. The idea met with approval and action will be taken.

Then the public affairs committee announced a resolution saying it recommended that a silver cup be offered by the club to the Moore county school having the best record of average attendance during the present school year. Contributions were asked to pay for the cup, and Dr. Poate started off with $25, and this was followed by others until a sum sufficient to buy a right expensive cup was in the hands of Richard Tufts, treasurer, and more signified the intention of sweetening the pot when they could overtake a dollar or so. This cup will be ordered at once, and the school that wins it will have something to be proud of as long as they can hold it. They can begin now to work for it, and the only winning way is for every scholar to get out to school every day.

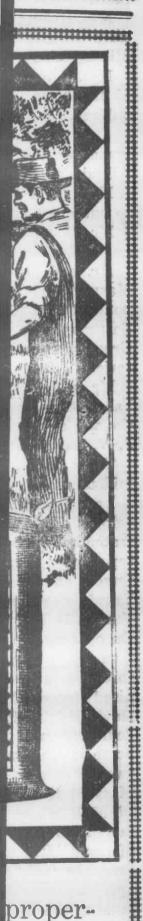

With school matters under discussion the Farm Life school came up again, and it was announced that in addition to the seven boys and girls the club is helping through the school there two others are aided by members of the club privately, making a total of nine in all. That started some more talk and a proposition was made that all club members broach to outsiders the suggestion that a few dollars, running from $1 to $120 be placed at the disposal of the Farm Life school as a revolving fund to be loaned to boys and girls to help them through school. This would constitute a perpetual fund, and would be available year after year, and the amount of good it would do would be great. This project met the approval of the mem-The county commissioners Monday bers and probably they will be strikendowment.

The Kiwanis convention of North and South Carolina at Pinehurst No-The sanatorium was sponsored by vember 5 and 6 promises to be the big-Miss Eifort, the welfare agent, and gest gathering ever held at Pinehurst, Dr. Poate, of Southern Pines. With as letters are coming in in numbers the help of Dr. Cain, of the Sana- making reservations. The local ortorium, they presented a logical case, ganization will be a sort of welcomand the commissioners authorized a ing committee of the visitors and building at the county home, large guide and chaperon while the bunch enough to hold eight beds, and Tom is here and they intimate that it will Burgess, of Southern Pines was given not be a quiet two days while the

Arthur Newcomb started out to Butler is a liar or not a liar, and so The state forester from Fayette- many members attempted to vote on

L. H. Jenkins who had come in with wanted to suggest the virtue of more advertising of the Sandhills in Richmond as he had been sending many folks down this way who knew nothing about the advantages here until he (Continued on page eight)

ates to 12222222222222222222222