

Miss Eifort Tells of Work

would be sent back and she could care for him. She sent the violent negro, but the other one has not yet been sent up to be cared for in the exchange.

One thing that is increasing school attendance is the practice of hot lunches in school. Some children are trying to attend school who have little to bring with them to eat, and some are ashamed to come on that account. But the hot lunch now supplements the scarcity in some dinner buckets and the children have taken advantage of that help. One statement the speaker made was that in one school it was next to impossible to get milk to serve with the lunches, but at other places the children bring milk and other things to help out.

Miss Eifort paid a nice tribute to Mrs. Tufts, head of the Welfare and Health movement in the county, and said that when the two of them were together at a meeting at Greensboro Moore county seemed to be in better shape than some of the counties, but Mrs. Tufts said that it was not wise to be too much satisfied with that disclosure, but the thing to do was to go back home and get the county in still better shape.

Help for mothers is another task involving much perplexity, for where mothers have small income and a family of small children on their hands the conditions are such that help is imperative. She told some tales in this direction that as she said were pitiful, but she is bringing more or less relief to a number, and she said that while the public funds permitted her to use are limited she had occasional contributions from friends of humanity that did a great deal. The speaker said that any whose pocket books are in condition to stand a little contribution for work of this sort can do much good by handing over any amount they feel like giving to a cause that is so much in need that it is pathetic all the time.

The talk was informal, and it was followed all the way through by the club, and as the Kiwanians were instrumental in the appointment of Miss Eifort to this work a certain responsibility was felt in seeing that it was carried on to its farthest corners if money is forthcoming, and Edwin McKeithen, president of the club, let it be known that anybody who feels like helping a good work along is invited to drop in a little sweetener to the relief fund whenever he feels that way. He also remarked that the success of the work settles without any doubt that the tasks are in the hands of an enthusiastic agent who is doing the full measure of those things the place suggests.

Prof. Ballard of Aberdeen, suggested a bigger consolidated high school somewhere in the vicinity of the three towns that would serve Pinehurst, Aberdeen and Southern Pines with an institution of a higher class than any that has yet been attempted in this neighborhood.

Dr. Gloma Charles, delegate to the Montreal convention, told of his visit and brought to the boys left at home a small souvenir of the meeting. His talk made a hit with the gang, who were glad to see that he had had a barrel of fun while he was over the border in the foreign land.

merit and wrote poems for every occasion. These verses were written not long ago, and her wishes followed by her daughter and friends as nearly as possible.

She will be missed in many places

Earth to Earth

"Let Mother Earth be my soft bed. When "Earth to Earth" o'er me is said.

Let her warm arm around me cling. And woodland birds above me sing

From out the whispering leaves, above Their notes of peace and joy and love;

Let pattering raindrops, gleaming, rest

On wild ferns growing o'er my breast.

No marble shaft by artist made

Need mark the spot where I am laid,

But let great pines that toss and sway

Against the sky through night and day,

With softly murmured cadence sweet,

Or bend in splendor, clothed in sleet.

Like giants, let them guard the bed,

Where I am sleeping, when I'm dead."

Mrs. D'auby was 86 years of age and is survived by one daughter, a grandson, and a sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briscoe, son-in-law and daughter of Mrs. D'auby returned to their home in Michigan Monday night.

CARD OF THANKS

May I have the privilege of expressing through your columns my deep appreciation and heartfelt thanks to the many friends of my mother, Mrs. H. M. D'auby, for their great kindness during her last illness and for their unselfish assistance and sympathy, after she passed away. My husband, Frank Briscoe, and Miss Ruth McNeill join me in this.

up to normal health.

Miss Eifort in making her report expressed regret that this county gets so little Mother's aid. Only two mothers are getting it. She knows of three others who are eligible.

A motion was made and carried that Miss Eifort be allowed to draw on welfare allowance to pay the board of a little boy in the state sanatorium for the month of June, also that of a patient in the colored division.

The meeting adjourned to meet in Southern Pine Civic Club Building the second Tuesday in October at 2:30 p. m.

tion that when the state Bankers met in Pinehurst a few years ago they had Tootsie in the Carolina hotel on exhibition. It was necessary to milk her four or five times daily, and she gave her weight of milk every few days and in her life time has yielded tons of butter fat. The continued development of young Mitchell cows at Pinehurst is logical, for cattle as well as men are much influenced by inheritance, and for that reason still bigger producers are expected there as the result of care in breeding and development of the Mitchell family of Ayrshires.

sizes, giving limitless choice to the builder. The other stones are in addition to the brown sands, and increase the quantity and variety immensely.

Mr. Spencer is anxious that intending builders consider the wisdom of using stone as far as possible, for as he says, if we can establish a new industry in building material in the county it will prove a big source of revenue, and save importing into the county heavy freight from distant points. It will also give us a fire-proof material instead of dangerous construction, and will prove much more durable and economic in the long run. The archery building on the Midland road has now progressed so far that it shows the effect of the stone in building construction. Persons who will use stone in building can find out about prices by conferring with Mr. Spencer at Carthage, A. B. Sally or Richard Tufts at Pinehurst, or at the Pinehurst Warehouses, where a stock of stone is now carried.

Fairy Stories

EVER READ the stories of rich men? Sounds like Fairy Stories, don't they? Well, you can figure in that some kind of a story, if you have that same kind of grit.

Most wealthy men learned early in life that a part of their income should be put aside for safe keeping. Later they found profitable ways to use it.

You need a bank account now for the same end. You are welcome here.

--Dewberry Shippers--

Mr. Mark Jorden, of the Iron City Produce Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., is making headquarters at the Hotel Vass, during the present dewberry movement in that vicinity. This is a position formerly filled by Adam H. Blickle of the above firm, who on account of the press of business at home is unable to pay his usual annual visit to this territory. Nevertheless he expresses a desire that the same consideration be paid to Mr. Jorden during his visit there as was paid to him. Mr. Blickle will endeavor as usual to obtain very best prices possible for the dewberries coming from that vicinity.
