Girl Saves Little Sister. But for the bravery and quick action of a young girl, Vass would probably have been the scene of a tragedy last Sunday. The baby daughter of Section Foreman M. B. Clayton, finding a time when the watchful eyes of the grownups were turned in another direction, decided to fare forth into the big world and see what was on the outside of her own dooryard. She toddled out to the railroad in front of the house, all unconscious of the fact that such a thing as danger lurked near. A northbound freight train that was not to stop in Vass rounded the curve. The engineer sighted an object on the track, but thought it was only a paper. As he approached the object, he discovered that it was a baby. He quickly applied the emergency brakes and sounded a warning. The brakeman, realizing that the train could not be brought to a stand still in time to save the child, rushed to the pilot, intending to make an effort to reach her from that point.

Hearing the shrill cry of the whistle, Miss Evelyn Clayton looked out, and saw her little sister's danger. A kind Providence willed that the baby should be on the side of the track nearest her. In some way, she hardly knows how, Evelyn covered the distance and carried the baby to safety, and the innocent little adventurer doubtless wondered what all of the excitement and rejoicing was about.

Woman's Club Meets.

The Woman's Club held its regular meeting last Friday night in the club rooms.

During the business session it was decided to have the summer meetings in the evening at 7:45 instead of the usual afternoon hour.

Mrs. Sam Smith and her committee very efficiently carried out a health program.

The holder of her name until August meeting.

The Club will give a rummage sale in the Temple Building Saturday, June 11.

After business was finished Mrs. Temple and Mrs. Dan Smith provided fun and refreshments.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was the drawing of a capsule, by each member, containing the name of a fellow member to whom the drawer is supposed to be especially kind during the months of June and July. No member is to know

An average of 12 dozen marketable eggs a year from each hen should give a good return. Hens that produce less than 100 eggs a year barely pay their expenses.

W. T. Pope, horticulturist of the Hawaii Agricultural Experiment Station, says that recent investigation shows that the banana was one of the earliest food plants cultivated by man. It was formerly known as "The Apple Paradise."

Feed the beef calf as much grain as it will clean up in 30 minutes and still want more. Remove from trough and left-over feed and give less next time. Digestive disorders occur from feeding too much rather than too little.

Keep in good repair fences around pasture where the calf grazes. Do not teach the calf to jump or be a rogue by allowing it to run at large or go through or over poor fences. Better have a gate for it to walk through than bars to jump over.

Timber when mature should, if practicable, but cut just the same as wheat or oats, no dead or diseased timber under any circumstances being allowed to stand. Heavy stands composed almost wholly of mature trees, however, should not be removed all at once unless the owner expects to provide for the new crop by planting.
