Saunders Warehouse Aberdeen, N. C.

A Leaf Tobacco Market with a Reputation for Getting Top Figures

You all know the reputation of the B. B. Saunders Leaf Tobacco Warehouses at Aberdeen. You know why that reputation is made. Good Prices, Interest in the man who has tobacco to offer, and prompt transactions.

But the thing that tells the story most emphatically is the quantity and the quality of the leaf the farmers offer, and the prices the leaf brings.

And so the story runs. These men bring these big offerings to the Saunders Warehouses because they know that here they will get the price and the rating of their good tobacco in a high class. In all these shipments some of the piles sold much higher than the average, but small quantities of lower grade made the average lower. Cook went to 54 with some, Tapp & Little to 55, with more than 1,200 pounds selling above 50, and Duncan and Beard each made sales at 50.

Here is a sale by E. C. Duncan, November 16:

554 pounds, average 41 cents, total	$226.60
One by E. Beard, same date:
304 pounds, average 44 cents, total	104.62
One by Tapp & Little, same date:
2,059 pounds, average 48 cents, total	970.70
One by D. M. Cook, November 15:
659 pounds, average 40 cents, total	260.42

This is why the Saunders Warehouses at Aberdeen have a reputation that brings the good tobacco from the good farmers. Saunders gets the price. He knows what tobacco should bring and he sees that it brings it.
