Mrs. McGraw Hostesses at Dinner

Mrs. McGraw was the charming hostess at a lovely appointed dinner on a recent evening. Covers were laid for seven. The guests were Dr. Smith, who is conducting a course in Bible literature for the teachers of Moore county, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Golden and Mr. and Mrs. Garrison. A delicious course dinner was served.

Mrs. Carl Kivett Hostess to Son's Teachers

Mrs. Carl Kivett, charmingly entertained the teachers of her two sons at dinner on a recent evening. They are Mrs. M. Burkhead, who teaches little James Kivett at kindergarten, and Miss Janie McLeod, who teaches Carl, Jr., in first grade. The little boys made delightful hosts, along with their mother as hostess.

Special Service at Baptist Church

The special service at the Baptist Church Sunday evening was largely attended. The sermon was preached by Dr. Jackson, pastor of the church. Special music was enjoyed by the congregation, rendered by Miss Blennie Cagle and Mr. Rose. After the sermon there were several baptized, this being the first time that the beautiful new pool in the new church building has been used. The service was very impressive.

Miss Currie's Class Has Egg Hunt

Monday morning on the lawn of the Presbyterian Church Miss Mary Currie amused her Sunday school class of little tots with their annual egg hunt. This is always looked forward to with much pleasure, and they are always fully satisfied with the fun and frolic. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Tutwiler Luncheon Hostess

Mrs. Tutwiler and little daughter, Margaret Ashe, were hostesses at a

Interest is interesting. Of course, everybody knows that interest is money paid for the use of money.

Just as money paid for the use of house is rent so is money paid for the use of money interest. The economical laws governing interest rates are almost identical with those governing house rent, or the rent of an automobile, or of anything else that may be hired.

The fundamental law of supply and demand operates inexorably, and so long as a man can make a profit by the use of something he can hire, he is justified in paying for its use whatever the law of supply and demands compels him to pay.

Therefore, whenever the rising tide of business presents attractive opportunities for the use of capital, men will bid against each other to hire it until interest rates reach a point where its use is obviously no longer profitable.

For many centuries human beings have habitually considered six per cent the maximum interest rate a borrower could afford to pay except in extraordinary cases, and the charging of more than that has been generally considered usury, prohibited by statutes in most states.

But as commerce and industry readjusted themselves in this country after the World War, it became apparent to those interested in business matters that opportunities to use capital profitably at high interest rates were presenting themselves in all directions, and business consequently began an unprecedented scramble for capital and credit.

As a result, interest rates shot up to stay up until those who have acquired capital have used it long enough and profitably enough to liquidate a sufficient amount of indebtedness to bring the supply of money and credit back to its normal proportion to the demand.

Then, and not until then, despite all the usury laws in the world and all the frantic efforts of economists and statesmen to control the situation, will money again pass freely at the rate of six per cent per annum.

lovely little luncheon, honoring Mrs. M. Burkhead, kindergarten teacher of Margaret Ashe. After luncheon Mrs. Tutwiler took Mrs. Burkhead for a delightful ride over the beautiful countryside.

Egg Hunts Were Given School Children

Of course it was really the "vogue" to have egg hunts Friday and Saturday, then, of course, you naturally had to skip Sunday, and then take a new start Monday, which most of our children did. Friday Mrs. Hilliard gave an egg hunt to her children in the fourth grade. All enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. Mrs. Cole, teacher of two or more grades, had an egg hunt for them, and they had a glorious time. Miss Norman McKeithen also saw to it that her children had an egg hunt and had a good time, so it seems that no one really was left out. Those that did not hunt eggs at school hunted them at home and are now planning for next Easter time.

Following is an interesting program of Calvary School:

The school closed Friday evening and the program was beautifully given, and much credit should be given the teachers, who are Mrs. Brown and Miss Swannie Kennedy. Song by all, "Climbing Leaving Hill," "Advice to our Friends," Ruth Heavens. Welcome to our friends, by eight children. "An Old Man's Advice," Hazel Crabtree, Leondis Beck and Gordon Mann. Readings were given by Gordon Mann, James Marley and Solomon Hall. "Red Wings," a pantomime, Ethel Brown and Maggie Beck. Reading by James Fisher and Edith Brown. "Choice of Trades," eight boys. Reading, Maggie Beck. Song, "Whippoorwill," by all. "The Inspector's Visit," John Marley, W. R. Brown, Maggie Brown, Emory Flinchum, Inex Mann, Ruth Heavens. Pantomime, "Home, Sweet Home," Mary Ashell, Ola Booth, Edith Brown. Reading, "The Mysterious Suitcase," Charles Chochran, Curtis Crabtree. Commencement song, ten boys and two girls.

A play, "The Mischievous Nigger," was rendered with much talent, the characters being Antony Snow (a mischievous nigger), Leondis Beck; Col. Fulton (a mild old gentleman), John Marley; Mars Fripon (a barber), W. R. Brown; Jemie Dicks (an Irishman), Emory Flinchum; Mrs. Morton (a widow and mother of the twins), Ruby Homer; Fannie Nibbs (a modern nurse), Ruth Heavens. "Good Children," by Maggie Beck, Esther Brown, LeRoy Crews, Curtis Crabtree. A lullaby, Silvia Homer. Vote of thanks, by five children. "Good-bye," Edward Cockran. "Tonight We Must Part," by all. The program showed much work and thought by the teachers and pupils. It was well given.

Last Saturday night or Sunday morning the Shields Drug Store was broken into, through the rear door, and the cash register robbed of $9.50. So far as is known that was all that was bothered. After robbing the drug store the thieves also took a car belonging to Mr. Clint McCaskill and drove it as far as Mr. R. G. Wallace's home on the Pinehurst road, there abandoning it, and taking Mr. Wallace's to make their escape in. Up until about 11 o'clock Monday morning the car had not been located and no clue to whom the thieves were. The home of Mr. Boyette, local attorney, was also broken into Saturday evening while the family was away from home, but nothing was disturbed.

Those attending the beautiful Easter service of the Moravian Church in Winston-Salem were Misses Annie Howell, Margaret McLeod and Johnnie Redding.

JACKSON GETS 30 YEARS FOR MURDER AT SANFORD

Bernice Jackson, charged with murder for killing his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Wicker Jackson, last December, was sentenced to 30 years in state prison after a submission to second degree murder was ordered by Judge Garland E. Midyette at Sanford.

When court convened last Saturday the judge announced that he would allow the defense motion, saying the solicitor and prosecuting counsel only acquiesced in this at his own request and the jurist assumed full responsibility for his action. He then imposed the maximum sentence.

Jackson seemed much relieved at the verdict, as did his mother, Mrs. Josie Jackson, and aunt, Mrs. Ollie McDougald, who have been with him throughout the trial. The prisoner who is only 19 years of age, was taken Saturday afternoon to the penitentiary to begin his long sentence.

The killing occurred in the apartment of his brother and sister-in-law early one morning, following a disturbance there the night before, the outcome of an illicit love affair between the young man and the slain woman.

Style and an air of fleetness is attained in the design of the new Oakland all-American Six by the high, narrow hood, with its five separate groups of five louvers each, and the narrow, chevron-type radiator grill.

To Automobile Owners

Premium Reduction for Careful Driving

It is fitting that this agency, which has always specialized in the writing of Automobile Insurance, should now announce that Private Passenger Automobiles can be insured at a considerable reduction if their accident record is reasonably clear. This reduction applies, at present, to property damage liability and personal injury liability and we look for a reduction in collision premiums in the near future.

Installment Plan

We are also pleased to offer a convenient Installment Plan for the payment of Automobile premiums. Payments are not collected by the Company, but are paid to us, so there is no interruption of the direct relation between agent and assured.

John Bloxham will be happy to discuss these important improvements with you.

Two strands of cord exactly the same length. One is Goodyear SUPER-TWIST, the other usual standard cord. Tension is applied by these machines.

Snap! the standard cord breaks. SUPERTWIST remains intact.

Let's try it again with fresh strands—same length. Tension is exerted, then relaxed. SUPERTWIST springs back taut like a rubber band. The other cord sags—no elasticity—it's dead.
