

COUNTY TO TAKE OVER EXTENSION OF INDIANA AVE.

Will Build New Road to Heights Beyond Southern Pines

SERVES LARGE SECTION

The county highway board on Monday authorized the construction of a road from Southern Pines out the Indiana avenue extension past The Ark school and along the line of the old Brown railroad grade, for years used as a road out to the Rockfish section. While this road had been the main dependence of that neighborhood it has been maintained most of the way as a private contribution of the neighbors. The startling development out that way has justified the county in taking the road, and Capt. Maurice and Mr. Underwood of the highway board were down Tuesday and located the road at some places on a new route. Construction will be undertaken at once.

James Swett was instructed to make a survey of the changes that are contemplated, which means straightening the road after it leaves the old railroad grade, and providing a straight and suitable location down to the colored school house. This will give access to the Callery development now under way, and to all that country on Rockfish creek to the county line which is also the boundary of Fort Bragg. The railroad grade will be worked up into a good road from the Grover property to the south end of The Paddock property which also opens a better inlet to much of the country along the ridge, and will probably ultimately result in improvement of the old grade to the county line, as it is much used by hunters and tourists, and especially by horseback riders. The drive around the head of the valley past the Creamer and Turner orchard, The Paddock and across the hill to the Callery property will make a wonderfully attractive outing for visitors as the route follows the dividing summit between Rockfish Creek and James Creek, and gives a view of the country in both ways for miles, and far down both villages into Fort Bragg.

Dogwood Has Value as Well as Beauty

Is Used in Making Shuttles for the Weaving of Cotton, Silk and Rayon

The dogwood tree adding so greatly to the beauty of North Carolina forests may be harvested as a crop without destroying the beauty of the landscape.

This is the opinion of R. W. Graeber, extension forester at State College, who was recently requested by an official of the State Federation of Women's Clubs to aid in the movement to prevent the destruction of dogwood trees. This official expressed great concern because of the dogwood tree being used for commercial manufacturing purposes.

"Dogwood in bloom presents a beautiful scene," says Mr. Graeber. "So does a field of golden grain, but we do not ask the farmer to refrain from harvesting his wheat crop. A new crop will take its place next season. The same thing applies to dogwood. It is a commercial necessity, supplying wood from which shuttles are made for use in weaving cotton, silk or rayon. No practical substitute for this wood has been found, but since trees less than five inches in diameter are not merchantable, the owner leaves his younger and more vigorous trees for future crops."

This means that there will be left plenty of dogwood to add beauty to our forests in the future. The tree seeds freely and reproduces from sprouts and suckers. When one tree is cut, several take its place. In the management plan advocated throughout the State by Mr. Graeber, dogwood is left protected as an understory beneath forests of pine, oak, hickory and other larger trees. It is shallow rooted and does not interfere with the growth of the deeper rooted trees.

Mr. Graeber says that dogwood grows on 87 different soil types in North Carolina but only on a few does it produce wood of commercial quality. In such areas it is protected by the landowners.

MISSIONARY IN CHINA IS SPEAKER AT CARTHAGE

Dr. George C. Worth, who for 35 years has been a medical missionary in charge of a hospital at Kiangyin, China, spoke to a large congregation at the Carthage Presbyterian Church Sunday at 11:00 o'clock, and at Eureka in the afternoon at 3:30. He told of interesting experiences, showing the power of Christianity upon the Chinese converts and paying high tribute to the courage and sincerity of the Chinese Christians.

At 8:00 in the evening Dr. Worth showed a number of stereopticon pictures, illustrating the kind of people and the mission work being done at Kiangyin. Dr. Worth makes his home with his son, the Rev. Charles W. Worth, who is engaged in mission work in the same city.

Many friends of his son, the Rev. Charles W. Worth, former pastor of the Carthage Presbyterian church, were delighted to meet Dr. Worth, and receive word of his son, who is greatly beloved by the people of this vicinity.

MR. AND MRS. J. V. HURD KILLED NEAR WILMINGTON

police, had then went to the scene of the accident, which probably occurred just after 10:00 o'clock.

The report of the tragic death of Mr. and Mrs. Hurd, for many years prominent in social and civic affairs in the Sandhills, cast a pall of gloom over this section and over Pinehurst in particular yesterday morning. They have spent most of each year in their home in Pinehurst for some time, Mr. Hurd having retired from his business activities in Pittsburgh several years ago.

Mr. Hurd has long been a prominent member of the Tin Whistle Club in Pinehurst, and there are few golfers who frequent the Country Club courses there in the winter months to whom he has not endeared himself. He has been "Jack" to all. Mr. Hurd's first wife was Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former national woman golf champion and now rated among the first five in the country.

Mrs. Hurd, by a former marriage, was the mother of Mrs. Jesse W. Page, Jr., of Southern Pines, Miss Julia Scott Butterfield and Miss Helen Butterfield of Pinehurst and Mrs. Caroline Allen of Columbus, Ohio, who spent some time this winter in Pinebluff. Mr. Hurd leaves a son, Sigourney, a student in Greensboro.

Five hundred head of fat hogs have been shipped to northern markets by Cumberland county growers this spring.

It was ordered that C. H. Phillips, Ritters township be allowed $11.53 for support on account of being totally blind.

Recorder's Court Proceedings

Monday was a busy day in recorder's court in Moore county, and few defendants were slighted when road sentences were being dispensed. Haywood Reaves, charged with possession and transporting, was given nine months on the roads on charge of possession for sale and an additional nine months for transporting, execution to issue at the will of the court within three years.

Sandy Barber, for public drunkenness, received a thirty day sentence. A. D. Nevill and Ollie Nelson were up on a charge of prostitution. Ollie pleaded guilty and was discharged. A. D. Nevill was found guilty and was given his choice of six months on the roads, or of paying all costs and getting out of the county within three hours.

Will Myers, for assault and trespass, received a six months road sentence. Crawford Dobbins was given 90 days for violation of the prohibition law. Charles Harris pleaded not guilty to a charge of larceny of a watch. The prosecuting attorney took a nol pro with leave.

S. H. Coe, charged with possession for sale and transporting liquor, pleaded guilty. Upon payment of the costs prayer for judgment was continued to 1st Monday in June. Bond, $300.

Albert Baldwin pleaded guilty to vagrancy and judgment in his case was 30 days. Dollie Ratcliff was given four months for assault with a gun and four months for assault with a knife, the latter sentence to be suspended.

J. L. Sanders was fined $50 and the costs for operating a car while he was drunk and for careless driving and was required to pay around $60 damages for an automobile which he ran into.
