

Did you ever think of the service your local bank renders your community? It undertakes to provide the capital on which the community operates. It puts into the working fund of the bank its own money in the capital stock, and frequently provides a surplus besides. Then as fast as earnings begin to accumulate the surplus is increased in order that the available capital for the business needs of its community may be larger.

But a bank cannot create any money. It can only put at the disposal of the community what money it has, and what its depositors deposit in its custody, along with loans that it may negotiate at times with outside people.

You can help to increase the working capital of your community by bringing to your bank any available loose money that you have and for a time do not need. That all goes into the common community usable capital. Your account is invited by—

Since that has been done, get out your insurance policies and check them up to make sure you have ample insurance and the policies are properly written, or else let us do that job for you.

Makes His Own Rain

Drought Has No Terror For Zeb Blue Since He Rigged Up His Irrigation Plant

Zeb Blue, one of the progressive farmers of Moore county has on his farm near Eureka an irrigating outfit for his garden, and all through the extreme dry weather he has been able to keep the ground moist. He installed the outfit by first building a large pond at the head of a stream where he collects water enough for his needs. A cement wall holds the water from seeping away, and maintains a sufficient volume all the time. Continued source of supply is found in the springs that head into the pool.

At the central point a gasoline engine is attached to a pump which forces water into a system of pipes of several hundred feet length, raised about seven feet above the surface. These pipes are perforated, and from the holes not far apart in each pipe small jets of water are forced with such velocity that they shoot forty or fifty feet in the air. The pipe is geared to a rotary device that turns it half over and back, thus pointing the jets of water to either side and permitting each pipe line to water an area nearly a hundred feet in width. When Mr. Blue wants a shower of rain he starts the engine and it does the rest. In consequence he has stuff in his farm garden that permits crops to be ready for the market almost all the time, and that enables him to make the quality of truck that he brings in to the market. It is worth looking over by any farmer who wants to be master of the summer droughts.

MRS. SMITH RECOVERING

Friends of Mrs. Alex Smith of Vass will be glad to know that she is now recovering from an operation which she underwent last week in the Moore County Hospital at Pinehurst. She is able to receive visitors and a number of her friends from Vass have been out to see her.

HER CROSS LITTLE BOY WOULDN'T EAT OR SLEEP

"My little son had poor appetite, couldn't sleep and was cross. I gave him Vinol and it ended these troubles like magic."—Mrs. L. DuCrest.

Vinol supplies the body important mineral elements of iron, calcium with cod liver peptone. This is just what thin, nervous children or adults need, and the QUICK results are surprising. The very FIRST bottle brings sound sleep and a BIG appetite. Vinol tastes delicious!!
