Quaker Home and School in Northern
Moore Gets New Ford for Christmas

Final Demise of the Prices' Ancient Flivver Stirs Mrs. Francis T. Keating To Action and New Ford For Christmas Is the Result

VISIT TO THIS SECTION AND INSTITUTION WORTH WHILE

The ancient flivver gave a gasp and stopped. Examination and argument, cranking, etc., all the usual artifices to which men resort when dealing with recalcitrant model T Fords failed to bring any response, and the Rev. Mr. Price was reluctantly forced to the conclusion that it had been his old friend's dying gasp. Even then he and his wife had been on their way to Pinehurst to consult with the president of the Moore County Health and Welfare Association about conditions in their home and school in the northern part of the county, and this meant that the trip must be given up—we hope it did not deprive the little waifs they are sheltering of any part of their Christmas.

They must go back home, which they did through aid from neighbors, and trust their message to the mails. Things weren't any too rosy for the Prices—Christmas was here and funds were low, lower than usual, for weren't the county commissioners withdrawing the monthly appropriation of $90,000 which they were paying for the upkeep and care of six county charges. And now the car had given out. Of course, it wasn't much of a car, but up to now it had been sufficient—it had gotten them there and back. "Its no use," the repairman said, "It just ain't worth fixing".

Back home the Prices sat down and wrote to the president of the Health and Welfare association, telling her of the intended visit and the final demise of their old Ford which had made it impossible for them to get out. The letter received, the fact that Mrs. Keating was sick in bed did not deter her from getting busy at once, and there is a saying that what Mrs. Keating goes after for other folks she usually gets. Using her voice for the first time since her illness, she caught H. A. Page, Jr., over the phone just before he left for his Christmas vacation. Mr. Page was liberal with his discount on a new Ford sedan, Mrs. Keating guaranteed the rest of the money and the Prices had a new Ford Sedan on their Christmas tree. We weren't there to see but we know what they did. They got down on their knees, for they are praying people, and thanked God for His goodness to them and for the kindness of humanity. What a help this new car will be to them!

Mrs. Keating says her friends have never let her down in a matter of this kind yet and she is sure they will not now. She recounts that when she guaranteed the $900.00 for the dental clinic (it was erroneously reported as a donation from her) she counted on the well-tested loyal support of local friends of the needy, and she has never yet been disappointed. So in this present matter The News believes that friends are not going to stand back and leave the burden entirely upon her shoulders. Things look rosier for the Prices and their helpless little charges. The mortgage which has hung over the home and school has been cancelled and due to the intercession of Mrs. Keating, the Rev. Murdoch McLeod and Dr. Charles, backed by the pres. of Dr. Symington and Mr. Price, the county commissioners rescinded their decision of the previous week and not for six months yet will the $90.00 appropriation be cut off. And with the new car better contacts can be made with the people of the section. Blessed new freedom from debt, good new car, happy new year!

However, this does not solve all the problems of the institution for 19 little stomachs take quite a lot to fill them and even with the aid from the county, help from other sources will be necessary. Ninety dollars a month for six means 50 cents a day for each. That is very little for the upkeep of a child. But to spread out $90 for 19 children means less than eight cents a day.

A representative of the Moore County News, who recently visited the school, says in part:

"We left the old homestead, which is in course of being remodeled a little at a time, and went to the school building where we found the family, and such a charming family it was. We were invited into a long low room which was heated by a big fire place and the room was made cheerful by potted plants. Not long did we have to wait before something interesting began to happen. Down the stairs came two handsome little boys, just the same age, it seemed, but on asking Mr. Price if they were twins, he replied "no, there is two months difference in their ages. They are two years old." One climbed on Mr. Price's lap while the other clung to Mrs. Price. It seems that Mrs. Price has taken charge of one of the little fellows while Mr. Price is the favorite of the other. And by the way, they call them "mother" and "daddy".

"Mr. and Mrs. Price deserve the backing of Moore county. You know it is a big job to feed and clothe 19 healthy children. Some of us complain of two or three. If they were not in the home with Mr. and Mrs. Price they would become delinquent or otherwise dependent on the state and as it is they are being reared to make good citizens, good Christian men and women. They don't do right because they fear to be punished; they do right because they love to do right. On being asked if they ever lost their temper with the children, they replied "no, never. Of course we have to punish them, but if we lost control of ourselves we would lose control of the children." And you know that is true.

Milk Is Needed
"Mr. and Mrs. Price are doing all the teaching this year. They are teaching the regular public school course, including the Bible.

"I would like to say here, that religion is not overworked in this home, but it is simply lived and practiced every day in the year.

"Mr. Price said they had three cows and they have a great many chickens, but they need more milk. They have a garden always and can lots of things for winter use. They work all the time at something and are content doing it."

Those who want to spend a pleasant day and see some of the most picturesque, entirely different scenery in this section and incidentally some of the most beautiful stone chimneys anywhere to be found, will do well to take a trip to High Falls. And while you are up there stop in and see the Prices and Nina May, the little 11-year-old girl, who, Mrs. Keating thinks, has unusual possibilities, and without whom the Prices say they could not imagine life being so good. They'll all be glad to see you, and you will get first hand information about the great work being done here in humble manner.

REV. LUCY T. AYRES TO PREACH HERE ALL WEEK

The Rev. Lucy T. Ayres of New York City will preach in The Church of Wide Fellowship Sunday morning, January 4th at 10:30 o'clock. Miss Ayres will also conduct a series of special services during the World's Week of Prayer, January 4 to 9. DEATH CLAIMS LEADING CITIZEN OF COUNTY

He spent much of his energy during his declining years in supervising the maintenance, upkeep and improvement of this sacred ground, and the recent beautification of the property stands today as a shrine to the memory of an untiring worker, the secretary and treasurer of an association nearly two centuries old. His body rests in peace and quiet, close by the entrance to the little church he loved.

There are many who knew Mr. Johnson not as a merchant, not as a druggist nor a lawyer, nor a public spirited citizen, but as a writer. For with all the activity of a busy life, James McNeill Johnson found time to transcribe his thoughts and memories and the fruits of his reading for the present and the future generations. One of his early books has been termed one of the best histories of the English Kings. It was published under the title "A Thousand Years with Royalty," and was the result of painstaking study over a long period. Several books of verse, many of the poems written in lighter vein, many in tribute to relatives and friends, many thoughtful records of the author's life and times, came from his pen, the most recent publication being "Free Verse and Paraphrase." His latest work "Talleyrand and Firefly" is still in the hands of his publishers, soon to be released. He was recently honored by the title of "Poet Laureate of Moore County" by the County Board of Commissioners.

Ever thoughtful of the less fortunate members of his community, Mr. Johnson gave much of his time and worldly possessions to charity and close to his heart was the County Home. Some years ago he established a Christmas foundation under the terms of which bountiful Christmas dinners were served to the residents there each year. His other charitable enterprises have been too numerous to record here, but it was typical of the man that he could leave no one in want, no one without a pat on the back and a cheery word and smile.

Funeral at Old Bethesda

Old Bethesda Church was filled to capacity for the funeral services, held there at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. The Rev. Ernest Barber, pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Aberdeen, officiated, assisted by Dr. Marcus Brownson, pastor emeritus of the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia and the Rev. Malcolm McNeill of Cameron. Mr. Barber paid tribute to his ruling elder, Dr. Brownson's prayer was inspired by long years of friendship with the deceased, and Mr. McNeill closed the service at the grave with the heartfelt farewell of a bereaved relative.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie B. Johnson, and the following children: Mrs. C. C. Bethune, J. Talbot Johnson and Jack McNeill Johnson, all of Aberdeen; Mrs. Frank Mizell, Tampa, Florida, and Lieutenant Felix Leslie Johnson aide to Rear Admiral MacVeigh of the Pacific Fleet, U. S. Navy, now stationed in Shanghai, China. Surviving brothers and sisters are Miss Mary Johnson Mrs. J. B. Fagan and Mrs. Ella J. Heckart of Aberdeen, Dr. Alice E. Johnson of Philadelphia, Mrs. Sarah Ward, Batesburg, S. C., Henry Johnson, Bethune, S. C., and Edgar Johnson, Defuniak Springs, Florida.

The active bearers were the deacons of the Presbyterian Church, M. H. Polley, Henry McC. Blue, Dan I. McKeithen, Edwin T. McKeithen, W. A. McNeill and Herman Campbell. Honorary bearers were W. A. Blue, T. D. McLean, S. E. Sloan, J. H. Suttentfield and J. W. Graham, elders of the church, and John R. McQueen, Dr. A. H. McLeod, Henry A. Page, Sr., Richard S. Tufts, Andrew I. Creamer, Nelson C.
