

Aberdeen Social Events

William Blue Host

Honoring his cousins, Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Blue of Fayetteville, William Blue entertained at a dinner party last Friday night at his home in Aberdeen. Following the dinner his guests were taken to the Club Skyline for dancing. Those enjoying this delightful party were Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Blue, Lillian Johnson and Elsie Chandler of Southern Pines, Miss Skelplin of Wilmington and Rhody and Sid Henderson of Pinehurst, and Billie Huntley, Ralph Leach, Jack Johnson of Aberdeen, Sig Hurd of Pinehurst and Bill Fisher of Southern Pines.

Book Club

Mrs. E. L. Barber was a delightful hostess to the Aberdeen Book Club last Thursday afternoon at her home on Page Hill.

No special business was transacted, but much discussion as to the Community House, which this club, together with other Aberdeen clubs are hoping to build during the coming year.

The subject for the afternoon was "India and Indo-China," and several interesting papers were read as follows: "The Native" by Mrs. Robert Stewart; "The Jungles and their Inhabitants, Birds, Beasts and Reptiles" by Mrs. D. I. McKeithen, and "Indo-China" by Mrs. H. W. Doub.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served refreshments. Guests for this meeting were Mrs. Murdoch McLeod and Mrs. Footman from Pinehurst, Miss Jane Frances Raegin of Carrolton, Ga., Mrs. Suttentfield of Pinebluff and Miss Hazel Cobb of Fayetteville.

Stay-A-While Club

The Stay-A-While Sewing Club was delightfully entertained on Tuesday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. John Duncan McLean on Main street in Aberdeen. This being the first meeting of the year the newly elected officers had charge, and plans were outlined for the year's work. Mrs. C. E. Pleasants, Jr., read an interesting article on Jane Adams, and Mrs. Forrest Lockey one of Edgar Guest's beautiful poems.

Entertained at Pinebluff

The Ladies Aid Society of the Aberdeen Baptist Church were entertained by the wife of their pastor, Mrs. C. L. Jackson at her home in Pinebluff on Tuesday afternoon of this week. This was a Jubilee meeting to celebrate the paying off of the indebtedness of the church pews, to which these ladies had so generously given of their time and money. The newly elected officers for the year are Mrs. W. W. Norris, president; Mrs. J. A. Lineberry, vice-president; Mrs. Herman Spooner, treasurer, and Mrs. Clara B. Lewis, secretary. To the three retiring officers, dainty gifts were presented as a token of appreciation by the members for the good work they had rendered this society, accompanied by appropriate speeches by Mr. Jackson. To Mrs. B. D. Wilson, in behalf of the society, Mrs. Lewis presented a beautiful cushion, reading an original poem, which was much enjoyed. During the delightful social hour following the meeting the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Hutchins and Mrs. Allison, served a most delicious buffet supper.

Claude Leavitt To Blame For Unemployment

Miller's Invention Prompts Letter To The Pilot Regarding Growing Evils of Machine Age and All That Sort of Thing

Claude Leavitt, the honest miller of Black's Mills, is making a hit. The mail Monday brought this letter from a modest man who is either bashful or afraid of Claudie.

"Another modest man and I were over at Mr. Leavitt's grist mill today, and I noted something that I think should be called to your attention. You will no doubt recall that the floor in front of the meal box is somewhat lower than the level of mill-house floor proper; making it impossible for the miller to stand at the meal-box and at the same time see the grist in the hopper.

"Now up on one of the wind-beams or joists of the mill house Mr. Leavitt has lashed a piece of a mirror about ten inches square, at such an angle that the miller (who of course is Mr. Leavitt himself) can watch the grist from his position at the business end of the mill, making it unnecessary to trip up and down the two steps to the other floor level.

"While this is the machine age the writer who wishes to remain incognito, feels that just such device as those are responsible for the wave of unemployment sweeping our nation today, and that unless some force is set in motion to counter-act such insidious machinations, our country is well on the road to the demnition bow-wows."

Soon after the letter arrived a countryman dropped in to say that he had been over to see Leavitt's mill operate, and that he regards it as a wonderful mill, and a mighty smart miller, mighty smart. For when I got my meal that he had ground there was as much meal on the miller as in my sack. Mighty lively mill and mighty smart miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Vetterlein returned to their home in Niagara Sunday after spending the holiday season in Atlantic City.
