Great Magician at Pinehurst March 12

Mardoni Said To Be the Equal of Houdini in Mysterious Escapes

Mardoni, said to be the greatest living magician and the equal of Houdini, is to appear at the Pinehurst School Auditorium Thursday night, March 12th. How does he effect his famous mysterious escapes? Does he take handcuffs off over his head, slip them over his large hands, or unlock them with his teeth? Many a worried chief of police would like to have the answer to these questions, for wherever Mardoni appears, the chief is invited to shackle him with the very latest adornments in "Sing Sing jewelry."

Mardoni's escapes from handcuffs of all descriptions, from stout boxes and from straitjackets, have been acclaimed by thousands as the most baffling and bewildering exhibit of the seemingly impossible that they have ever seen. Madame Mardoni appears with her wizard-husband, assisting in mind reading and magic, which are added to his escape stunts.

When he appeared at Eustice, Florida, a year ago, Mardoni went down to Lake Eustice, followed by an immense crowd, was rowed out from the shore in a fishing boat and, handcuffed, dived into the lake and came up with the handcuffs free from his wrists. He is a human enigma who has a tremendous drawing card on Redpath entertainment courses for the past two years. A large crowd is expected to witness his performance.
