Insect Intelligence

Rev. Mr. Stimson Sees Lesson to Mankind in the Ant, the Bee and the Spider

At the Baptist Church in Southern Pines the Rev. J. A. Stimson is delivering a rather unusual series of Sunday evening sermons during the month of March, having for their aim to show some of the attributes of the Creator which many of us are not familiar with or overlook. Last Sunday evening his theme was based on the Scriptural admonition to go to the ant and consider her ways and be wise. The pastor had evidently been studying the life story and occupation of some of these little creatures for he told of their highly organized relations to each other, to the work they carry on, their building of their homes, of foraging and procuring supplies, how they care for certain insects that provide them with milky fluids much as the human race cares for cows. He cited the remarkable engineering ability the spider shows in spinning his web and building his habitation, introducing geometrical figures that are perfectly accurate. He held up the bee with its ability to take sweet juices from flowers and build its food supply, and from the pollen of the flowers to shape its comb, which is the family home.

From all of these little creatures he drew a lesson of the importance of all creation, and the amazing skill of the Creator who has established other intelligent creatures than men on the earth. His application was the immensity of creation, the broad basis on which it is founded, and the deep interest its author shows in everything, both great and small. His subject Sunday evening will be "A Million Miles a Day," which we are traveling through space. His influence will be the vast area that space covers, and the unlimited domain over which Jehovah rules and operates. Mr. Stimson gives existence a startling magnitude, with creation as a work that stands a great deal of thinking.

DORMITORIES BURN AT SAMARCAND SCHOOL

Owen, of Waynesville; Estell Wilson, of Lexington; Cloae Stillwell, of Kinston; Virginia Hayes, of Leaksville; Rose Mull of Rutherfordton; Thelma Council, of Tarboro; Edna Clark, of Halifax; Ollie Harding, of Chocovinity City; Bertha Hall, of Norfolk, Va.; Marion Mercer, of Ayden; and Teral Stules, of Canton. Sheriff McDonald said the ages of the girls were between 15 and 20 years.

The buildings destroyed were Chamberlin Hall and Bickett Hall, both dormitories. Miss Estelle Bickett, secretary to Miss Agnes McNaughton, superintendent at Samarcand, testified that the Bickett Hall was completely destroyed about 5:30 p. m. and shortly afterwards fire was discovered in Chamberlin Hall, but was extinguished.

Another fire was started in Chamberlin Hall about 8 p. m. and it was destroyed.

Azella Stuphin and Margaret Euell, inmates of Samarcand, were exonerated in connection with the fires.

To Rebuild at Once

At a meeting of the trustees of the institution, held Tuesday, it was voted to erect two fireproof buildings to replace the burned dormitories, and C. C. Hook, Charlotte architect, has been designated to draw the plans. Chamberlain Hall was insured for $12,500 and Bickett Hall for $15,000. They had been in use for thirteen years. Temporary arrangements have been made for caring for the girls who were housed in the buildings and had no part in the fire.

Around 50 girls were housed in one building and 30 in another. The cost of replacing the two structures with fireproof buildings is expected to be around $75,000. The difference between this figure and the insurance will probably come from the State's emergency and contingency fund. The institution has a capacity of 250, but is caring for about 275 girls.

Trustees of the school at Samarcand from this section are Leonard Tufts, Mrs. J. R. Page and Edwin McKeithen. The latter two attended the meeting which voted to erect the new building.

SOME PROSPECT FOR NEW PAVING OF LOCAL HIGHWAY

A committee of the Southern Pines Chamber of Commerce waited on State Highway Commissioner J. Elwood Cox at High Point on Wednesday afternoon and pleaded for the paving of Route 50 south of Aberdeen to the county line at Drowning Creek. Seen after the conference, Frank Buchan seemed encouraged over the prospect of getting this much needed improvement lined up for summer work.

Theatre

At Pinehurst

"Fifty Million Frenchmen," the all-technicolor screen version of the famous stage comedy, which comes to the Pinehurst Theatre Friday afternoon and night, beside being a gay romance of youth and love, is one of the most uproarious pictures of the year. Olsen and Johnson, known as the nuttiest nuts of outland are in evidence as sleuths, and the cast includes William Gaxton, Helen Broderick, Claudia Dell, Lester Crawford, John Halliday, Vera Gordon and Nat Carr, most of whom were in the original Broadway production that set all New York laughing for months. "Fifty Million Frenchmen" is filmed entirely in technicolor.

"It Pays To Advertise," which is scheduled for the Pinehurst Theatre Monday afternoon and night is another adaptation of a famous New York stage success that is packed with laughs. The story concerns the young son of an irascible millionaire soap manufacturer who decides to go into the soap business on a shoestring. A perfect comedy cast, consisting of Skeets Gallagher, as the high powered advertising man, Norman Foster as the young son, Carole Lombard, Helen Johnson and Louise Brooks, (the latter making her American reappearance) Lucien Littlefield and Eugene Pallette, will keep any audience constantly laughing.

"Unfaithful," which comes to the Pinehurst Theatre, Wednesday afternoon and night, is Ruth Chatterton's latest starring dramatic hit, her third featuring Paul Lukas in the leading role. Lukas, a perfect foil for Chatterton's emotional personality, leaped into popularity with his work in Chatterton's "Anybody's Woman," added laurels with his work in "The Right To Love." Miss Chatterton's great talent is given unrestricted play in "Unfaithful." John von Druten, the playwright who won prize honors with his stage play, "Young Woodley," fashioned this inspiring story especially for her. As an American girl married to the popular hero whom she loves madly; as the disillusioned wife who finds her husband's virtues are merely a mask for his secret philandering; as the reckless thrill seeker, seeking desperately to drown her pride in one wild escapade after another, this brilliant actress plays a series of characterizations in which her emotional expressions are given full sway.

At Southern Pines

Thrills and excitement in abundance, augmented by a tasty proportion of romance is promised at the Southern Pines Theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. For "The Conquering Horde," classic Paramount picture starring Richard Arlen, is to be the main feature attraction. Emerson Hough, its author, was the writer of "The Covered Wagon." Paramount spared no effort to make this historically true story come to vibrant life on the talking screen. The story concerns the days just after the civil war when cattle-raisers in Texas were land poor and when unscrupulous and plotting "carpetbaggers" were forcing the Texans to sell their property at fabulously low prices. The supporting cast consists of Pay Wray, Claude Gillingwater, Arthur Stone, Charles Stevens, Chief Standing Bear and many others.

One of the greatest treats of the season is promised at the Southern Pines Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, when Will Rogers comes to town in his latest production, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," by Mark Twain. This is really 'nuf sed. Mark Twain planted the seed and Will Rogers reaps the harvest. "Yankee" has more twists than a cork-screw, more bubbles than champagne and more surprises than a grab bag. "Yank" Rogers puts the shivers in chivalry, knots the knights helpless with wise-cracks and goals them with modern magic.

For the accomodation of the public, seats will be reserved in the rear of the boxes and will be on sale at the Broad Street Pharmacy at Southern Pines.

MUSIC SPEECHES, FUN TO OPEN COMMUNITY HOUSE

Little Miss Bettie Barber is going to give some special numbers, with Jackie Page at the piano. Mrs. Burney will sing a solo or two. The program of fun is being worked up by Dan I. McKeithen and Ralph Caldwell and goodness only knows what the public may expect. Mrs. W. A. Blue, aided by Mrs. E. H. Macon and Mrs. W. T. Huntley, will act as hostesses and extend the cordial hand of greeting to those present. This is an all-Aberdeen affair. Everyone is invited.
