

Hot Lunches Improve Health of Children

Many Gain Weight, Says Dr. Symington.—Dental Clinics Continued

The hot lunches in the schools are steadily improving the health of many of the children, says Dr. J. Symington, Public Health Officer of Moore county. One boy has gained twenty pounds in weight in one of the schools since the beginning of the hot lunches, and one girl who was much below par has gained eighteen pounds in weight. Many of the children who were underweight have been brought up to normal. Those who have made these lunches possible by contribution and those who have given their time and worked hard during these winter months to make these hot lunches a success are due much appreciation, and we know that their valued gifts and diligent labor are very much appreciated by the parents of the children and by the children themselves. Diseases such as tuberculosis, rickets and pellagra have undoubtedly been warded off by these lunches during the winter months, and children enabled to do better work in school.

Mrs. Francis T. Keating of Pinehurst has been able to raise more money for the dental clinic, and the State dentist will continue his work in the county until the end of the present school season. The State dentists found the condition of the teeth of the children in Moore county as bad as in any of the worst counties in the state, and this shows the necessity of such a clinic. It is hoped training for the children to continue going to their dentist at least once a year so that their teeth may be kept in a healthy condition. Money has also been raised by Mrs. Keating to enable the state to send Dr. Holliday to work on the children attending the Pinehurst New Settlement School, and a clinic there will commence on Monday the 23rd inst.

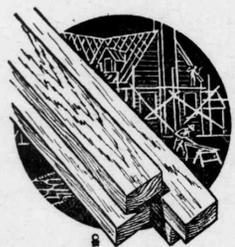

The kind of food the children are given is very important in the prevention of pellagra and in maintaining teeth in a healthier condition. So much depends on good feeding. The public health officer is continuing the examination of children in schools throughout the county and is conducting a campaign against pellagra.

What's In A Name?

Some folks may think there is not very much in a name, but June Harrington, son of W. J. Harrington, Moore county's Register of Deeds, thinks its pretty poor business to have the same name that some other folks carry around with them. In last week's Recorder's Court "June Harrington" was up, charged with possession and transporting. However, the June Harrington in question was a colored man, but few people in the county are aware of the existence of a June Harrington except the Registrar's son, so there you are. However, we introduce to the public June Harrington Number 2, and state that it was he and not the well-known Mr. Harrington who was reported in last week's Pilot.

Cooperative hog and poultry sales in Beaufort County last week netted the growers $2,336.81, reports county farm agent E. P. Welch.

$35,000 Ask Loans

More Than $3,000,000 Already Paid to Veterans by Charlotte Bureau Office

North Carolina veterans have received more than $3,000,000 in loans under the new bonus legislation and applications are still being received at the rate of 1,000 a day, J. S. Pittman, manager of the Charlotte office of the U. S. Veterans Bureau said this week.

More than 35,000 applications for loans have been received, he said. Although they are not coming as rapidly as during the first two weeks, there are still plenty to keep the office force busy, he added.

Pittman said that information received at the office indicated the veterans were using their money to a good advantage. Some of them, he explained, paying bills with the loans, while others are using the funds in their business enterprises.

EXTEND SEASON THROUGH MAY, IS MOVE LAUNCHED

Pines is seriously contemplating holding the Inn open into June, and is making preliminary preparation now that they may be ready up there on the hill if they carry out the idea. He says he believes profitable business can be done several weeks after the period on which the folks have been sent away in past years. Mr. Creamer has been studying the possibilities of a move of this kind for several years, and is pretty well convinced that if the folks of the community will make an earnest effort to have a longer season it can be accomplished. It is believed that many more North Carolina people can be attracted to the golf courses and the tennis and archery games, and other things that are here. Good roads make it so easy to come from any place in the state, or from the states farther south as well as from the North, that advocates of a longer season are confident that success will follow a determined effort to make this a summer resort in the early summer and a fall resort in the fall.

Accommodations Needed

Thousands of folks went to make a vacation automobile journey in the early summer months when it is yet too cold and unpleasant to go to the New England and northern boundary country. The good roads down through Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, reaching mountain and seashore down this direction provide the outlet. But as Mr. Creamer says travelers can't come this way and put up unless they have a place to stay, and they don't know that we have such places unless we tell them. Mrs. Giles is making a good move in a golf tournament that she is planning for the Southern Pines Country club the latter part of May. It is said that many things of that sort, drawing people from this state as well as from farther away, could be carried through if we just get it into our heads that such might as well be undertaken as to allow the big investment in hotels, stores, theatres and other facilities to lie idle. Southern Pines and Pinehurst have a fame for attractiveness that inclines people this way just to see the neighborhood. A welcome and something for them to do to be entertained and an open house the advocates of a longer season think would make that longer season.

Has it occurred to you that the Andrews home on Weymouth took out of the available building room up there nearly 40 acres, and cleaned up all the territory between Massachusetts and Connecticut avenues, that as much land as that taken this year would move the frontier of development down to the Bethesda road, and that one or two more such purchase totals in a season would make Connecticut avenue, Indiana avenue and Bethesda road the outskirts of Weymouth?

There is the choice section of Southern Pines. Not an objectionable place in the boundary, and none possible. The fine homes of the community, and more building. The Paddock, growing daily, Webster Knight, Robinsons, and others just beyond, and Fort Bragg guarding the frontier a mile beyond the Paddock.

The moral is to get your home site while there are some to get. A year or two more and you will have to go farther.
