

A Home in Pinedale

Just out the Midland road from Pinehurst,
Offers an investment as well as a home.

The activity that is apparent out the Midland road and on both sides of that road suggests the immediate future and a development that will be in keeping with anything this section has yet known.

Pinehurst is overflowing its boundaries. At Pinedale a few hundred dollars will still buy a large size building site, three-fourths of an acre, at a figure that cannot last forever, and the man who secures a location there now will have a definite return on his money whether he builds a home or not. But it is to be remembered that most of the buyers are buying to build, for houses are steadily in greater demand in the Pinehurst area.

Location, Price and Prospect of the future are three features at Pinedale.

At the CAPITAL

By M. R. Dunnigan, The Pilot's Raleigh Correspondent

The scene of the struggle with the bill to raise revenue for the operation of State activities for the next two years was shifted during the past week from the House of Representatives to the Senate, which body has been sweating over the controversial Revenue Bill since Friday, when it dissolved into the committee of the whole. It has been engaged in taking it up, section by section, and tearing at its provisions.

The House, after having its week, passing it and being prevented from making changes by a filibuster, shoved it over to the Senate as if it were a hot brick, but many of the members voting for it, reserved the right to have another say, if opportunity arose, to take a whack at the general sales tax provision which it contained. Numbers of members voting for the bill as it was finally worked out, expressed the hope that the sales tax could be eradicated by the Senate.

The Senate, pulling off its coat, figuratively speaking, waded into the bill Friday, clearing the lobbies of all visitors, in order to keep its mind on the matter in hand. It scraped over many of the provisions and the prediction was made that the end would not be reached until well into this week. The sales tax will be the greatest subject of contention. The belief has been and still is that the Senate will not adopt any form of sales tax, general or luxury, unless forced to do so by the House.

As has been the general impression for some time, it now seems that the Senate will eliminate the sales tax provision and substitute for it the increase to probably $10,000,000 in the school equalizing fund. If it goes back to the House in that form, the result is problematical. The House will not accept that change unless it is forced to. A deadlock may result and a conference committee named to iron out the differences—which will be a big task, if present indications are born out. It may develop into a deadlock, a sort of endurance contest.

At best, the session cannot end in less than 10 days from the start, which will carry it well into next week. That would be 40 days longer than the usual and 3 days longer than the record 70-day session two years ago. Although adjournment is long past due, the legislators are sticking to their tasks and at the present rate practically all of them will be here at the end, although a few of them may find it necessary to return home.

One of Governor Gardner's bills came through to ratification and started in operation last week, the establishing of the Department of Banking. Examination and liquidation of banks is taken from the Corporation Commission, a move that is expected to help restore confidence. Governor Gardner named Gurney P. Hood, Goldsboro, representative from Wayne, organizer and head of the Hood System Banks, industrial, as Commissioner of Banks. As the advisory board, he named W. H. Wood, Charlotte; Col. J. T. Bruton, Wilson, and Agnew H. Bahson, Winston-Salem. The act became effective immediately upon its ratification. Mr. Wood came to Raleigh Friday and took charge of the department.

The first redistricting bill, providing for eleven Congressmen, was passed in a hurry last week. It practically splits the Fifth district into two, and raises the numbers of the former districts to one higher, the old Sixth to the Seventh, and so on. The other bills, one to redistrict the State Senatorial districts, the other to reapportion the members of the House of Representatives, both on the basis of the 1930 census may not be enacted, although this is required by the Constitution. It would move two or three Senators and six or seven Representatives to the populous Piedmont section.

Bills introduced this session have reached 1,200 in the House and 530 in the Senate, a total of 1,730. Although decreasing in numbers, 40 were placed in the hopper in the House and 17 in the Senate last week. Among the public bills introduced last week were the following.

Another "short ballot" bill has made its appearance, going further than the previous ones and including all of the statutory elective State officers, the commissioners of Agriculture, Insurance and Labor and Printing, and the members of the Corporation Commission. Doubt is expressed if this will pass, Governor Gardner taking the position that such changes should be included in Constitutional changes, so they could not be changed by every Legislature.

The seven Republicans in the General Assembly came to life last week and caused a stir by introducing a bill directing the Governor and other State officials to aid in furnishing data to the U. S. Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections in the con-

Southern Pines Curb Market Big Success

Patronage Forces More Ample Facilities for Farmers with Their Weekly Offerings

The curb market at Southern Pines has done so well that larger space is to be provided for it, with more stalls and conveniences for handling the farm stuff that will be increasing in quantity as the spring gardens begin their yield. Much variety is already shown in the offerings, including eggs, poultry, cakes, pies, bread of various kinds, canned goods, buttermilk sweet milk, grape juice sausages, and other things that the ingenuity of the women thinks to create and bring along.

The market is practically in the hands of the women, and they add to the interest in Southern Pines on Saturday, for beside the business transactions that take place the folks who come in from the country to the market are wide-awake and cordial women who bring with them the bits of neighborhood news and happenings.

The business done is growing with a promise of a permanency that will help the town folks to satisfy their needs and afford an outlet for much of the work of the farm and garden to the benefit of all parties to the transactions. Marketers come from all around Southern Pines, six to ten or a dozen miles, bringing products that are of high quality, which are sold at prices that move the wares. Eureka, Vass, Cameron, Pinebluff, Carthage and intervening neighborhoods are represented, farther distances not showing so many producers. If you happen to have come from the country yourself in the days gone by you will be attracted by the homely atmosphere that prevails around the market, in addition to finding it a good place to secure the makings of your Sunday dinner.

WEYMOUTH HEIGHTS

SOUTHERN PINES

Ten Million Dollars the government has decided to expend in making Fort Bragg the finest thing of its kind in the country.

Another contract for $150,000 for new quarters for officers has been let to the builders, and work will progress at once.

Fort Bragg reservation boundary is only two miles east of Weymouth Heights, and Weymouth is the entrance of Fort Bragg to Southern Pines and Pinehurst.

Fort Bragg is rapidly building up a great military and social center that is destined to have a big influence on the Sandhills, and Weymouth is Fort Bragg's nearest Sandhill neighbor.

A vast military park, that will always be a gigantic park, and just at the door of Weymouth, and in the big picture seen from Weymouth doors.

ANOTHER EXAMPLE OF FORD VALUE

Bright, enduring RUSTLESS STEEL is used for many exposed bright metal parts of the Ford

WHEN YOU BUY a Ford you buy enduring beauty. The body finish is made to last for the life of the car and practically all exposed bright metal parts except the bumpers are made of enduring Rustless Steel.

This Rustless Steel has great tensile strength. It is the same bright metal all the way through. A salt test equivalent to forty years' service under the severest weather conditions failed to have any effect on its brilliance. It never requires polishing. All you do is wipe it with a damp cloth, as you do your windshield.

This is just one of many features that show the substantial worth of the Ford. In speed, comfort, safety, economy and long life—in the richness of its finish and upholstery—it brings you everything you want or need in a motor car at an unusually low price.

Call or phone for demonstration.
