

Garden Party Nets $336 For Library

Children of The Ark School, Aided by Grown-Ups, Stage Successful Affair

A beautiful day brought a constant stream of guests and purchasers to the sale at the Ark School in aid of the Southern Pines Library last Thursday. The proceedings opened with country dances on the lawns, under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Howe, in which all pupils took part with spirit and pleasure.

The stalls were arranged in the house and were in charge of the following: Fancy Stall, Mrs. H. O. Bennett, Mrs. Myers Hoyt, Miss Cuthbert, Henrietta Wardwell and Ellen Vale; Flowers: Mrs. W. C. Arkell, Miss Ruth Starr and Sara Jane Barnum; Wood, Reed and Raffia: Miss Webb, Dana McNeill, Richard Peck, Charles Howe; Cake and Candy: Mrs. Paul Barnum, Ann Fenner, Mary Pethick, Katherine Howe; Grabs, Constance Child, Sylvia Peck, Lillian Halliwell, Florence Wardwell; Leather and Toys: Mrs. Eldert, Miss Tuttle, Elizabeth Eldert; Ice Cream Stand: Phyllis Lovinger, Mary Arkell, Anne Child.

Miss Laura Jenks presided over a stall of articles made entirely by her group of younger children who also helped her sell. The side shows did a roaring trade. Mrs. Edgar Chapman and Mrs. Gibbons gave excellent character readings. Jean and Barbara Hoyt tempted all to try their luck at "Penny-in-the-Bucket," the aim being to cover a dime at the bottom of a pail of water by dropping a cent on it. Miss M. Denyer invented a Fine Art Gallery that caused much amusement. Morel Bentley took charge of clock golf. Priscella de-Forrest was a successful seller of matches and lavender.

An orchestra arranged by Miss Mary Yeomans played delightful music at intervals which enlivened proceedings and attracted many listeners. Those playing were Miss Yeomans, Miss Margaret Bishop, Miss Anna Jenks, Mr. Yeomans, Charles Pier and Mrs. Lucy Cameron. Many thanks are due to friends who gen-
