ON Weymouth Heights
Southern Pines, N. C.
The first charm of Weymouth Heights is that it is the summit of the dividing ridge between the water of the Little river and the Peedee. That water shed is an irregular group of pleasant hills, endless in their picturesque scenery.
Six hundred feet above tidewater, higher than any place from here to the ocean, looking out in all directions over the country for miles.
Contours that give endless variety to the home site and the home grounds on Weymouth, that are adaptable to different styles of architecture, as the houses on Weymouth show. Look at the Andrews house, the McKinney house, the Vail house, the Boyd house, the Nichols house, the Highland Pines Inn, the Lachine houses, and lots of others.
No monotony on Weymouth.
All other features present the same wide range of charm—all there on the summit, topping the world round about, dominating the landscape.

Chevrolet has struck a popular new note in motor-car styling. Many factors have contributed to the remarkably wide-spread popularity of the new Chevrolet Six. Among these are smooth performance, low price, matchless economy, exceptional riding ease and driving comfort. But no feature has been more strikingly evident in the enthusiastic public reception of the car than its smart new style. Fisher Body craftsmen, with their background of fine-car designing, have made this new Chevrolet an exceptionally attractive automobile. Study it from any angle and you find it extremely pleasing. Look at it from the front and you are impressed by the modish ensemble of deep radiator, large headlamps and arched tie bar—all gleaming in rich chromium plate. Viewed from the side, the long hood, low-swung body lines, sweeping fenders and massive wire wheels strikingly suggest the car's fleetness and power. And the appeal of Chevrolet's beauty is made more pronounced by the fact that all models are available in a variety of colors. Interiors, too, are unusual in every way. The upholstery is carefully tailored. Seats are roomy, deeply cushioned and invitingly soft. And the interiors are tastefully appointed. In fact, the new Chevrolet Six is such a thoroughly fine-looking automobile that it has become a very popular choice with every type of buyer. You find it not only the smart family car, but the smart personal car, as well—a worthy companion to the expensive automobiles of the two- and three-car household.
