Emergency Crop Loan Office in Carthage

Maximum Amount Obtainable by One Individual is $250, the Minimum $25

The Pilot has just received word that an emergency crop loan office has been opened at the Court House in Carthage and farmers desiring loans should apply between the hours of 8:00 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.

According to the regulations under which the crop loans are to be made this year, any farmer who secures a loan must obtain a statement from the county production council, where one exists, that he does not intend to increase his acreage or production in violation of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program.

In counties where a county production council has not been set up, before any application for a loan will be considered, the farmer who is applying will have to give satisfactory evidence that he is cooperating with the production control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The maximum amount of an emergency crop loan that may be obtained by any one individual is $250, the minimum is $25.

Applications for loans in any amount from $25 to $150 may be accepted by the emergency crop loan office provided the farmer does not have sufficient security to obtain a loan elsewhere.

A farmer applying for $150 or more must first make application to the Production Credit Association for a loan from it. Rejection of this application by the Production Credit Association will be considered sufficient evidence that other credit is not available and the applicant may then make application to the Emergency Crop Loan office.

DUKE ENDOWMENT ALLOTS $7,279 TO MOORE HOSPITAL

(Continued from page 1) that 11 additional hospitals will be assisted later this year, which would bring the number of such institutions up to 109, and make the total appropriation, on the basis of $1 per patient, per day, $810,000.

Last year, a statement by the trustees said, patients who received free treatment numbered approximately 57,000, or an average of 523 per hospital. For each of these, the endowment will pay about $14. Since 1924, the statement added, the number of free patients has doubled while the percentage in participating institutions has increased to 60 per cent from 30 per cent.

Other institutions of local interest were allotted the following sums: Duke Hospital, Durham, $55,475; Hamlet Hospital, Hamlet, $10,621; Highsmith Hospital, Fayetteville, $13,140; Lee County Hospital, Sanford, $2,740; Pittman Hospital, Fayetteville, $8,352; Watts Hospital, Durham, $21,692.

Business Manager Edwin McKeithen of the local hospital said yesterday that the Duke allotment represented $100 to a patient day for charity patients, but that as the patient-day cost was nearly $5.00 a day the institution must look to other contributions for a continuance of its care of those unable to pay.

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Moore County Hospital will be held at the hospital next Tuesday evening, April 3rd, at 7:00 p. m. The directors will meet for dinner, the meeting immediately following.

Miss Arnold and Mr. Giles met while here.

Miss Arnold is at present teaching at Friends Central School in Overbrook, Pa. She is a graduate of Tufts College. Theatre

At Pinehurst

With everything that any audience could want in a picture, "The House of Rothschild" is one of the grandest pieces of entertainment to reach the screen in years. It deals with historical facts—the ambitions, intrigues, jealousies and hatreds of men and nations behind the world-moving events—or in its more intimate phase, wherein the Rothschild family is symbolic, when it portrays the glory of a race which emerged from the tragedies of eternal persecution, it is close to the last word in sincere, understanding and convincing production. For George Arliss followers, "The House of Rothschild" is going to be an unalloyed joy, for the lovers of adeptly-cast pictures the cast is going to be something to praise; from the youthful early family of Rothschild to the tremendously large number of small character parts well played in the closing days which the picture depicts; and to the lovers of lavish costuming the last reel will be an inexpressible pleasure.

After "The House of Rothschild" was booked, Mr. Picquet was notified that it would be road-showed at advanced prices and would be withdrawn from release in all popular priced motion picture theatres until next Fall, but the producers permitted him to keep his original dates provided he would charge an admission price of $1.65, which would be the regular road-show price. He succeeded in compromising with them to the extent of pricing part of the main floor at $1.65 and a part at $1.10. The schedule of prices will be as follows: Boxes $2.00 plus tax 20c, $2.20. A part of the orchestra, $1.50 plus tax, 15c, $1.65—remainder of the lower floor, $1.00 plus 10c tax, $1.10; balcony, first three rows 75c, remainder at 50c. Matinee prices will be boxes, $1.10; lower floor, 75c; balcony, 50c; children, 30c.

She portrays in one breath and defies all creation in the next and loves men according to her own code. As the lying, stealing, loving, hating impetuous and spontaneous girl of the mountains, Katharine Hepburn comes to the screen of the Pinehurst Theatre Wednesday, April 4th, matinee and night, in "Spitfire," a picturization of the Broadway stage success, "Trigger," and those who have seen the picture declare that it offers the scintillating star her most impressive role to date, not excepting her Eva Lovelace of "Morning Glory" or her Jo March of "Little Women." It is a story of a mountain girl who becomes frantically religious from reading the texts of some cards she has stolen from a Sunday School, and who undertakes miraculous healing powers through her primitive faith in God. Hated by the many who believe her witch, and loved by but a few of the beneficiaries of her miracles, she becomes an out-cast. The story is said to be unique in many ways, not the least of which is the fact that the spectator in unable to guess the outcome until the climax is reached. Ralph Bellamy and Robert Young are Miss Hepburn's leading men.

The attraction at the Pinehurst Theatre, Friday, April 6th, matinee and night, is none other than the adaptation of the well known stage play, "You're Telling Me" in which W. C. Fields, that superb comedian gets real chance to strut his stuff and takes full advantage by delivering all kinds, sizes, and shapes of laughs. As a nut inventor, Topper, in demonstration of his puncture proof tire, he deflates the balloons on the wrong car, and humiliated, leaves town, attempts suicide, meets Princess Le-carboursa, who later okays him with the home town high-hats, maneuvers the engagement of his daughter, helps him get a million for his invention and exalts him to the post of driving the first ball at the opening golf course.

At Southern Pines

Another spectacular pre-release attraction, but at the regular prices, has been arranged for the Southern Pines Theatre Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, April 2, 3, 4, with a Tuesday matinee, in "Melody in Spring." An unusually pleasing comedy with music, featuring the radio star, Lanny Ross, and surrounded with such notable stars as Charlie Ruggles, Mary Boland, Ann Southern, George Meeker, and the three Gale Sisters. "Melody in Spring" is a real family attraction, especially appropriate to Easter week. It is a musical, motivated by light, liting comedy.

"Bottoms Up," described as a romantic comedy with music, will play a return engagement at the Southern Pines theatre, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 5, 6, 7, with a Saturday matinee. Buddy DeSylva, the producer who was also responsible for "Sunny Side Up" is credited with another hit. Like his earlier success, "Bottoms Up" is a delightful romance with songs woven logically into the story. "Pat" Paterson, lovely English comedienne, makes her American film debut in this picture. The other members of the cast are John Boles, Spencer Tracy, Herbert Munidin, Sid Silvers, Harry Green, Thelma Todd, Robert Emmett O'Connor, Dell Henderson, Susanne Kaaren, and Douglas Wood. The film satirizes the bluff of Hollywood.

lake of considerable capacity from which more water may be pumped to the orchard if desired, and also to afford a bit of relief picture to the cove in which it is situated, and for various purposes that an ingenious ruralist can expect of a body of clear, fresh running water on the place.

A program of improvement that will occupy the most of the summer is laid out and is already under way, to be followed later by other schemes that will be supplementary to what is done this season. Mr. White has so recovered his health that he is able now to arrange to live here most of the year, and his purpose is to find in this section his chief occupation in creating about his community an atmosphere that will help to bring out the pleasures of life this community can afford.

While the property etain acres in clearing the bulk of it is in pine forest, with pines of all sizes from the old timers that escaped the sawmill man to the little seedlings just rising above the ground. The streams on two sides and the rivers and ridges with some table land give the finest chance in the world to landscape engineer to plan an interesting project, so that for the next few years Mr. White's home will be one of the interesting studies of the Sandhills. With Knollwood, the Barber estate and the fine places expanding all around in that quarter the Knollwood region is extremely attractive this spring.

BIRD CLUB NEWS

Again the value of publicity was proven by the largest attendance of the year, on Tuesday last. Unfortunately the birds have been too busy, it would seem, to even read our news items, so the number of species seen fell off despite an ideal morning. It is safe to say the gathering of members and visitors (always welcome) on the steps of the New England House after the hunt in the woods amply repaid all who came. Friends are urged to go, either individually or by twos and three, on any pleasant morning and roam quietly over wooded ground, making notes of what they see and hear. Those with more experience will, at the next meeting, be glad to try and translate such notes into identification although success is by no means guaranteed.
