

Kiwanis Fights For State Driver License

Petitions to Legislature Placed in Circulation in County Asking New Law

A fight for a State driver's license for automobile operators was re-launched at the Kiwanis Club meeting this week and all members urged to sign the petitions now in circulation in the county calling upon the next Legislature to pass suitable legislation. These petitions are in the City Clerk's office, Southern Pines; Col. G. P. Hawes' office, Pinehurst, the offices of the Recorder of Deeds and Tax Collector in Carthage. Col. Hawes stated that we will not stop killing people on North Carolina highways until we have some supervision over drivers of motor cars.

N. L. Gibbon, candidate for the State Legislature, and Sheriff C. J. McDonald, candidate for re-election, spoke briefly at the meeting. It was announced that $140, had been raised to date in the club's campaign for support of a bed in the children's ward of the Moore County Hospital this year.

Theatre

The two attractions offered at the Southern Pines Theatre next week are just the kind which the patrons would order for the warm weather and for relaxation after a strenuous winter season.

"Private Scandal," the attraction for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 14, 15, 16, with a Tuesday matinee is not what the title would indicate by the casual reader. It is a comedy-mystery, in which its novelty lies in the effective use it makes of a liberal assortment of gags and situations from the old bag of comedy tricks, with not a serious moment in the whole picture. While there's drama, romance, thrill, excitement, suspense, intrigue and mystery, it is loaded with a lot of fun making, supplied mainly by Ned Sparks and Zazu Pitts, but participated in by all—even the dead man—that alternately gave the preview audience the creeps and spasms of laughter.

"Private Scandal" is audience entertainment even if it lacks the fancy wrapping of "big" cast names, and is okay for the youngsters as well as the adults.

Another comedy entertainment, through which runs a unique and exciting romantic theme, is "Thirty Day Princess," the attraction for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 17, 18, 19 with a Saturday matinee. It is also full of humanness that makes for popular all-family entertainment. Modern, semi-tropical in atmosphere, located in New York, the story deals in familiar matters and situations in a smartly novel fashion. Fast moving, action compensating dialogue, the comedy, romance, light but sharp drama, political and newspaper excitement are logically worked into the premise of a commoner playing Princess and a Princess yearning to be a commoner. Sylvia Sidney takes all possible advantage of a light role and "kicks in" with the best performance in the best picture she has done in many moons. Cary Grant is also especially effective. An added attraction is the newest Our Gang Comedy, entitled, "For Pete's Sake."

route them on up to the Smoky mountains.

"I plan to go to New York within the next few days and if we cannot get action there to go to London to take up the proposal."

"I have one criticism to make of you North Carolinians," Mr. Rinn said. "You have an enviable opportunity but the people of the state do not try to get visitors to visit your unsurpassed scenic spots."

Lost Opportunities

"I have been here 10 days and not one person, filling station operator, hotel clerk or other citizen has said one word urging me to visit your beautiful mountain country."

"If I had been in California that long a hundred people would have been telling me the beauty spots of the state that should be visited."

"You must tell the world what you have to show. I shall attempt to help in this program by reporting on what I see here within the next few weeks."

"Hundreds of thousands, perhaps millions of dollars can be brought into your state every year if you will tell the country what you have to show. Travelers are always looking for new places to see. They have not

Baseball Tomorrow

Final Game of Exhibition Series Between Southern Pines and Pinehurst

The final game of the Pinehurst-Southern Pines exhibition series will be played tomorrow, Saturday afternoon on the Southern Pines field. This will probably be the deciding encounter. The two clubs were playing yesterday at Pinehurst as The Pilot went to press, Southern Pines with a weakened club, and a victory for the Pinehurst team will deadlock the series at two games all. The locals are minus the services of Vann and Myrick and possibly Patterson and Hunter for this contest. They should be able to present their full strength tomorrow, however, in the final clash.
