Consumers Being "Gypped" by Short-Weight and Short-Measure Says Baucom

Many consumers in North Carolina are being "gypped" out of considerable sums annually by unscrupulous dealers who short-weight or short-measure what they buy, simply because the purchasers do not check often behind them, states C. D. Baucom, in charge of weights and measures laws for the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Baucom reports that recently he stopped a load of bread to find that the loaves were plainly marked 16 ounces, but in reality weighed only 14 ounces. Under threat of prosecution, he required the truck to turn back and properly label the bread. Much could be saved by frequent weighing and measuring behind dealers, and reporting when short Mr. Baucom states.

Cattle Arrive for Pasturing—Mattress Factory in Prospect for Southern Pines

Many people visited the stockyard in Carthage Friday to view the cattle that had just arrived for placement on the pasture of W. J. Harrington in the Glendon section. The cows had been well fed on their trip from the drought-stricken areas and also while kept over in Monroe for inspection, and appeared in better condition than many expected to see them.

Wade Hardin of Liberty, State Inspector of Pastures, has approved pastures to care for 595 cattle in Moore county.

The relief office is planning to establish a mattress factory in Southern Pines if a suitable building can be procured for it. Mrs. Swett, who is the case worker for that end of the county, is on the lookout for a building that will be available through the winter months on a rent-free basis, and if she succeeds, the State stands ready to furnish the cotton and ticking and the relief office the labor. The mattresses if made, will be used for relief families.

Miss Head, Director of Relief in Moore, has announced the purchase of this year's crop of apples on the 40-acre orchard of O. W. Brown three miles above Hemp. The crop has been estimated at around 500 bushels. The canneries at Hemp and Jackson Springs are making apple butter and canning the apples, which are of the Delicious variety, and the products will be used in school lunches and for relief families this winter.

FILLING STATION OPERATORS TO BENEFIT BY GAS EXPANSION

Filling station operators are to have advantage of the expansion of gasoline and not be required to lose it or pass the loss on to customers, under Regulation No. 13 recently adopted by the State Board of Agriculture. Gasoline is to be delivered to filling stations as if it had a temperature of 60 degrees, the usual heat in underground tanks. Gasoline at 90 degrees, a not unusual summer heat, expands 1.8 gallons to the 100 gallons; nine gallons to 500 gallons, and 72 gallons to 4,000 gallons. A station receiving 500 gallons at a 90-degree temperature would lose, as it drops to 60 in the ground, about nine gallons, or about $2.00 at present prices, Supt. C. D. Baucom, of the weights and measures division, points out.

Purina Pig Chow Is the Glad Word Now

It is the feed that rounds out the pig, makes him eat greedily of the feed you give him from the farm surplus, puts flesh on his bones and makes the bones to put it on.

These days are the time to put the flesh on the pigs. A few weeks more and they will be heading for the pork barrel, and you want them to go there in form to make the barrel glad to welcome them.

PURINA PIG CHOW

Puts sausage on the corn cakes, Ham on the egg plate, and bacon with the turnip greens.

Purina in the feed room means joy in the hen house, in the cow barn, in the pig lot, and in the horse and mule stables. Purina is compounded for all live stock, on scientific principles, and of wholesome and nutritious materials.

Now is the time to plant Turnips and all Fall garden stuff.
