

Electrification Survey Under Way in County

Frank Wood of Carthage in Charge of Work to Determine Rural Needs

Frank Wood of Carthage, a graduate civil engineer, is in charge of the rural electrification survey in Moore county which is being made with a view of extending power lines so as to make electricity available for rural homes. Mr. Wood will find out the number who are interested, the number of prospective users and will determine whether the project will be put on. He will work only in communities where the people show interest, it is said. Already petitions have gone in from the West End and Eureka communities, and it is likely that the work will be carried on in those sections first.

HARRINGTON RECOVERING

Friends of W. J. Harrington, register of deeds, will be glad to know that he was able to return to his home last Sunday from the Moore County Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis, and that he is getting along well.

Fire Prevention

Governor Ehringhaus issued a proclamation setting aside this week, October 7-13, as "Fire Prevention Week" in North Carolina. Citing the huge annual fire loss, he asks the people of every community to cooperate, seeking to discover and eliminate existing fire hazards, promote measures of public and private fire protection and arouse the people generally to the need of habits of greater care, and instruction of adults, as well as children, in prevention.

Etheridge Ill

R. Bruce Etheridge, director of Conservation and Development, underwent an emergency appendicitis operation Tuesday morning, following an acute attack in his room at the Sir Walter Hotel here while shaving. His condition is reported to be satisfactory and it is believed he will recover nicely from the operation.

Agricultural Activity

Commissioner of Agriculture William A. Graham will show by a dozen charts the activities of the Department of Agriculture in this state at the annual meeting of the National Association of Commissioners of Agriculture at the annual meeting of the National Association of Commissioners of Agriculture Oct. 15-17. Facts as to the operation of each of the dozen or more divisions, with bulletins of the work of each, will be displayed on cardboards on a rack. The president of the association asked Mr. Graham to explain the operation of his department.

Aid for Fishermen

Governor Ehringhaus has addressed a letter to a large number of fish dealers in North Carolina asking them to cooperate with fishermen in increasing the prices paid for fish in order that the fisherfolk may receive more than a starvation return for their labors. A group from Carteret county met with him last week and asked his help. The letter is for immediate relief, and plans for more general improvement in market conditions for fish will be taken. While fish are selling around 15 cents a pound over the State, fishermen receive from one-half to one and one-half cents a pound for their catch, it was shown.

New Species of Fish

A new species of fish, native to and found only in North Carolina, in fact in Hyde county's Lake Mattamuskeet, is on display this week at the State Fair. The new fish is a bass, but unlike any other found anywhere, and discovered in the Hyde lake only a few months ago. It is to be called scientifically the "Micropterus Hydesis," the "hydesis" honoring Hyde county. Fingering of the new bass will be distributed to streams over the State next year, conservation officials say.

New Raleigh Airport

Former Governor O. Max Gardner and Mrs. Gardner, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, who downed 26 enemy planes during the World War, Harlee Branch, second assistant Postmaster General, and scores of other prominent air people were in Raleigh last Thursday for the celebration of the completion of the modern Raleigh airport. In the crowd were some 100 officials, most of them coming in some of the 53 planes on the field during the afternoon celebration. The field was constructed with CWA and FERA funds. Former Governor Gardner said it was the best field between Newark, N. J. and Miami, Fla. Elmer Myers has been in charge for several years.

Infant Death Rate

A special drive is being made by the State Health Department, under direction of Dr. George M. Cooper, to try to reduce the infant death rate in North Carolina. Records for the first seven months of this year show that 3,693 children under one year of age died during that period, as compared with 3,092 for the same period last year. Dr. Cooper attributes this rate, in part or as "one of the causes: Three or four generations of undeserved poverty with its resultant ignorance and misery." The huge federal tax paid from the State to the government is cited, with comparisons of amounts paid by other states. "But we pay for the foddling, and we are paying it with our children's blood," Dr. Cooper points out. Every month this year shows an increase in number of infant deaths over the number shown for the same month last year.

Sir Walter Changes Hands

The Sir Walter Hotel, worthy successor of the long-known Yarborough House, as the place where laws are made and much business done, has passed from the hands of T. L. Bland, well known hotel man, who recently filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, and is now being operated by the Sir Walter Hotel Co., headed by Robert R. Meyer, of Birmingham, Ala., with J. E. Kavanaugh as vice-president and general manager. Roland Mumford, formerly in South Carolina and Washington, D. C., is the new manager, and Robert L. Lee, with the Bland interests for many years as auditor and manager of the Sir Walter, is assistant manager. The new company plans to spend close to $50,000 in renovating the Sir Walter.

Fresh cut flowers sold every Saturday at the Curb Market in Southern Pines.
