Theatre

At Pinehurst

Richard Dix, the star—Zane Grey, the author—the perfect team to film thrilling tales of the winning of the West! Their talents have been combined before in the making of motion pictures, with great success, and now they have joined hands again and made "West of the Pecos," one of Grey's best stories of the old frontier, and the attraction at the Pinehurst Theatre, Monday, February 18th, matinee and night. No star in screen history has been as successful as Dix in creating the gallant characters of pioneer times. The colorful role of "Reco Smith," fits Dix to the traditional T, and RKO-Radio feels that the company and the star have added another brilliant portrait to the large gallery of Western heroes. Laid in the Pecos country, the film abounds in the thrilling episodes which are one of Grey's specialties—notably the fording of a flooded river by a train of covered wagons and a herd of stock.

The most startling innovation in screen entertainment since motion pictures were first discovered is offered in "Sequoia." M-G-M's nature drama featuring Jean Parker, the attraction at Pinehurst Wednesday, February 20th, matinee and night. A human romance is blended into a story of American animal life containing such unheard of scenes as a mountain lion and a deer, nature's most deadly enemies, playing together like lambs; hundreds of deer on migration into high Sierra regions never before photographed by a camera; mountain lions and wolves stalking animal prey, and intimate records of the daily life of such wild animals as coyotes, bears, raccoons, eagles, baby fawns, and small lion cubs. It runs the scale of natural drama, romance, comedy, tragedy, spectacle, thrill, conflict, menace. The pagan beauty of Jean Parker has never been brought out to better advantage than during her scenes as a "girl of the forest" who finds adventure and love while helping her naturalist father. Shirley Temple, sensational baby star, endears herself again in a vehicle especially tailored to her extraordinary talents. Charming, lovable, without the slightest trace of precociousness, Shirley will capture audiences' affections with her amazing versatility in "The Little Colonel," the attraction at Pinehurst Friday, Feb. 22nd, matinee and night. With Bill Robinson she tap-dances the salvos of a preview audience. She sings, and weeps and is adorable in hoop skirts and poke bonnet. In Technicolor her personality radiates as one in a million. Barrymore presents another portrait that is noteworthy. Robinson, who elevated tap dancing to an art, is a sensation in his first picture, with his comedy and dancing. The cast also includes Sidney Blackmer, Hattie McDaniel, pickaninies and colored choristers.

At Southern Pines

A recent story by Arthur Somers Roche is the foundation of "Shadow of Doubt," the attraction at the Southern Pines Theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Feb. 18, 19, 20, with a Tuesday matinee. "Shadow of Doubt" includes many elements automatically recommending it as an entertainment feature, rich story quality and fast tempo, plus capable delivery point up a well-balanced cast headed by Ricardo Cortez, Virginia Bruce, Constance Collier, of stage fame, Isabell Jewell, Betty Furness, Arthur Byron and others. Essentially it is a uniquely solved murder mystery, running the entire scale of essentials necessary to a romance tinged, comedy-relief shudder picture.

As hauntingly tender a love story as ever graced the screen, in the memory of movie fans, "One More Spring," will play a return engagement at Southern Pines, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, February 21, 22, 23, with a Saturday matinee. As the stars, Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter leave nothing to be desired in this brilliantly executed version of the Robert Nathan best seller which created a furore when published. They belong together as a perfect team of screen lovers. Amid the hard knocks that come with having no money and no prospects of work, this trio recruited with an odd assortment of human jetsam, acquire the gift of courage, and the sense of the deep abiding qualities which give value and beauty to living.

BIRD CLUB NEWS

An ideal mid-winter day with the sun shining and the air not too cold to permit the hunters to enjoy the out-of-towns, inspired 17 members and two guests to attend the Tuesday meeting of the Southern Pines Bird Club. The number of different species seen on the hunt was increased this week to twenty-three.

It was noted with interest by many members that almost as great a variety of birds may be seen in their yards where food trays and bird baths have been provided as in the woods nearby. The startlingly beautiful spectacle of four cardinals and several blue jays in close proximity in her yard was spoken of by one member.

Another member, brand new at this bird study pastime, has found that observing the individualities of the different species of birds, their feeding habits, their association with other birds, friendly or otherwise, one of the most absorbing and fascinating occupations she has ever engaged in during a long busy life spent wholly in a large city, where bird study was limited chiefly to the omnipresent English sparrows and unwelcome starlings.

The Pilot is read by some 10,000 persons each week. Regular advertising would drive your message home to these prospects.
