WORLD'S BILLIARDS CHAMPION EXHIBITS HERE ON MONDAY

Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, present holder of the world's pocket billiard championship, will give one hour of free instruction on the fundamentals of billiards during his appearance at Straka's billiard parlor on East Broad street, Southern Pines at 8:00 p. m. next Monday, March 4, in connection with the National "Better Billiards" program being conducted by the National Billiard Association of America. Ponzi extends a special invitation to the women to be present at that time.

These exhibitions are free to the public and will include 45 minutes of play, meeting all comers, as well as fancy shots and one hour devoted to free instruction.

Ponzi, whose real name is Andrew D'Alessandro, began playing billiards when he was a child. He was born in Philadelphia in 1904 and during his career has held the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania State, New York State, Eastern States, and the world's championship. He won the latter title last March when he defeated the former defending champion, Erwin Rudolph, in a challenge match. It was in this challenge match that Ponzi set a new high-run record of 153-U.
