The Week in Vass

A large congregation was present at the Vass Methodist Church last Sunday morning to hear the program presented by a group of seven girls and one boy from the Methodist Orphanage in Raleigh. The program, given under the direction of Mrs. Nellie Rives, was one of the most impressive ever given here. The children are well trained and their songs and readings were presented in a most delightful way.

Following the service, the young people were entertained in homes of the community at dinner, and in the early afternoon they returned to Raleigh.

Mrs. N. N. McLean, who has been ill with pluriety for several days, is showing marked improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Matthews and Miss Sara Edith Matthews visited Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Barnhardt of Sanford unday afternoon.

Mrs. F. W. Taylor, Misses Louise and Marjorie Leslie, W. C. Leslie and Julian Leslie visited the azalia gardens in Wilmington on Saturday.

Miss Dorothy Mae Graham and Gerald Graham of Ruffin, S. C., Miss Butler of Hallsboro, S. C., and Bernice Graham of Raleigh were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Graham.

Mrs. Bryce Griffin of Sanford visited Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Griffin a few days the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben W. Smith and T. R. Moffitt of Sanford spent Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Smith.

J. M. Tyson visited Mrs. Tyson at the home of their daughter, Mrs. L. C. Wallace, in Carthage Sunday, and found her feeling better than for some time. Mrs. Tyson entered the Moore County Hospital in December for an operation and since leaving that institution several weeks later has been with her daughter. Her many friends in Vass are hoping that she will soon be able to return home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson of Pinehurst and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Keith of Raeford visited Mrs. Jane Keith Sunday.

STILL RAIDED

Officers raided a distillery several miles out from Vass on Cranes Creek and succeeded in catching one of the two operators, a colored man named Fred Martin. Officers were nearby when the two men began work for the day and after allowing them to start up the plant, they made known their presence. The outfit was of some thirty or forty gallon capacity.

WILLIAM A. CLARK OF JACKSON SPRINGS PASSES

William A. Clark died on March 7 and was buried from the Presbyterian Church at Jackson Springs, of which he had been a lifelong member and officer. His pastor, the Rev. R. G. Matheson, officiated.

Coming from a long line of Scottish ancestry, he inherited in a large measure the keen intelligence, integrity and honesty of that race which has given so many leaders to church and state. His parents were the late John B. Clark and Margaret McNaughton Clark. On the Clark side the line in America went back to Kenneth Clark, who came from Scotland about 1760, and Parlan McFarland, who came from Scotland at the age of 14 with his father John about 1772. Parlan McFarland's wife was Flora McKay, a daughter of Alexander McKay, a delegate to the Provisional Congress at Halifax.

On his mother's side the line in America went back to Neil McNair and Farguar McAuley, both of whom came probably about the same time as the other Scotch settlers. This side gave several preachers and doctors to the county.

Mr. Clark was a man to whom many turned for advice and counsel. Even in his early boyhood he was called on to help his uncle and aunts who had been left in straitened circumstances after the war between the states, to his fatherless niece and nephews, and to his own younger brothers and sisters he was brother, father, counsellor and friend. Mr. Clark was a bachelor and leaves two brothers, G. McA. and J. M. Clark, and four sisters, Misses Mary, Eva and Margaret Clark of Jackson Springs and Mrs. J. F. Meacham of Rockingham.

As a Christian Mr. Clark was an outstanding man for many years. He had been secretary of the Board of Deacons of the Presbyterian church. His work gave him a position of high responsibility and great usefulness. When suggestion was made as it frequently was that he be made a ruling elder he discouraged the idea because he was already filling a useful place. This memory on the part of his pastor and brethren in the church will be cherished in gratitude and appreciation of a man who was true to his trust as a citizen, neighbor and churchman.

BUY COTTONS OF KNOWN ORIGIN, SAYS GARRISON

"About this time each year, wonderful new (or supposedly new) varieties of cotton are offered for sale," says County Agent E. H. Garrison, Jr. "Extravagant claims, setting forth the wonderful merits of these cottons, are made in advertising matter. The guarantees seldom mean anything as there is usually a loop-hole. Some of these cottons may be new developments, others are probably old varieties sold under an attractive new name. Certainly they are seldom worth the high prices asked for the seed.

"Farmers are advised not to buy seed of varieties of unknown origin or untested performance.

"We have in this state several varieties which have been thoroughly tested, and have proved to be high yielders and produce the length and quality of staple in greatest demand. These varieties are Coker Cleveland 884-4, Mexican strains 128-6, 87-8 and 58-14, Coker Cleveland 5-5, Humco Cleveland 52, Farm Relief and Carolina Foster. In the Wilt Resistant group, Dixie Triumph No. 25, Cleveland Nos. 2 and 3, and Humco Dixie No. 14. These varieties are grown extensively in the state and good seed are available. Farmers are urged to stick to these standard approved varieties and not pay high prices for new varieties of which they know nothing."
