SITE NEAR ASHEVILLE FOR NEW STATE SANATORIUM

Location of the Western North Carolina tubercular sanatorium will be on the old Buckner place, two miles from Black Mountain and on both sides of Route 10 in Buncombe county, the site committee announces and the board of directors approves. Kemp D. Battle, chairman of the site committee, and Senator Lee L. Gravely, chairman of the directors, both of Rocky Mount, made the announcement. The old Buckner place contains 176 acres and cost $18,200, while deductions of contributions made will reduce the cost to $12,861. On the site is a plateau suitable for buildings, protected on the north by a range of mountains and open on the other three sides. Asheville water and sewer lines cross the property, as does the Southern Railway, and it is near the mountain test farm, from which dairy products and vegetables may be secured. The Asheville Chamber of Commerce will furnish water free for five years. The sanatorium was authorized by the 1935 General Assembly.

Robert "Bob" Gouger of Pinehurst was five up on old Par to win first honors in the Yadkin Club tournament, individual against par, playing over the Pinehurst No. 1 course, which is in tip-top condition. Hinson Maples, student and golf star at Davidson College, was second, being three up. C. E. Swearingen and H. D. Vail, both of Pinehurst tied for third place, being two up.
