

Farmers Here Received $74,754 A. A. Funds

Moore Received Large Sum in Rental and Benefit Payments in Fiscal Year

Moore county farmers received $74,754.14 in AAA rental and benefit payments distributed to growers cooperating in the crop adjustment programs during the fiscal year ended July 30, Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College, reports. Those payments, he adds, are only a part of the increase in farm income. The rise in prices paid to growers for their commodities has in many instances increased their incomes more than the amount of rental and benefit payments, Dean Schaub said.

Total payments in North Carolina for the fiscal year were $14,733,147.51, of which $8,015,380.81 went to cotton growers, $5,945,844.43 to cotton growers, $719,383.20 to corn, hog producers and $51,599.67 to wheat growers. Expenses of administering the programs for the year were $1,147,290.71, about seven percent of the amount distributed in the state. Most of this went to county and community committees named from local farmers to aid county agents.
