In-Gathering Planned by Scots on Nov. 7th

Presbyterian Church in Wagram Will Be Scene of Novel Affair

Down in Scotland county on November 7th the Scots gather at the Presbyterian church in Wagram at a novel affair. It is known as an "In-gathering." Farmers, neighbors, friends and strangers are welcomed. The name In-gathering comes from a day set apart when the flock collect in the shadow of the church for a dinner that is served to all who come, free of charge. A short prayer service is held and then after the picnic dinner, an auction takes place that offers about everything grown or produced on the farm. You can buy your Thanksgiving turkey or a bag of peanuts, a bedspread or a ham, some pop-corn or a bale of cotton. The range is wide, as the products cover a wide scope. The bidding is lively. The prices are suited to the buyer. It is a unique way of disposing of those wares.

THREE-DAY SPRING BLOSSOM FESTIVAL IS RECOMMENDED

out with that sole purpose in view and not as a thinly veiled advertising stunt. If one of the incidental results of the festival is increased prosperity for the town all well and good, but to include any features in the program which are not directly inspired by the beauty of Spring in the Sandhills or closely related to it, and which are calculated merely to attract crowds of spectators, is to place the whole thing on a false basis, and to destroy its real value.

"Old Slave Day is fine, cutting out the crap shooters and with more singing by the colored folks and their school children. The sports day is also eminently appropriate, though general participation by everybody in games and sports of various kinds would be far more in keeping with the spirit of the occasion than an exhibition of skill by outsiders.

"I believe that a three-day festival of this character could be repeated year after year with increasing interest and enjoyment on the part of participants and spectators and with perhaps an appreciable increase in the spirit of community cooperation.
