Leadership Training School Opens Monday

Will Be Held on Alternate Nights in Pinehurst and Southern Pines

A Leadership Training School for all the churches of the Sandhills will be held jointly on alternate nights in the Church of Wide Fellowship in Southern Pines and the Community Church in Pinehurst. The same courses will be given in both churches. The School is held under the auspices of the State Sunday School Association. Credits will be awarded for satisfactory work which lead toward a diploma in leadership training from the inter-denominational Council of Religious Education or from any of the denominational board of religious education.

The faculty consists of the Rev. L. C. Bumbarner of Concord, Miss Priscilla Chase of Elon College, and Miss Mrytle A. McDaniel, director of Leadership Training for the State S. S. Association. Pastors, Sunday School, and young people training for leadership will find the courses fitted to their needs.

The School begins Monday, November 25 at 7:30 at the Community Church in Pinehurst. The same courses will be repeated on Tuesday night at the Church of Wide Fellowship. The school will continue until December 7th, alternating for the two week between the two churches so that all the communities in the Sandhills may have a good chance to share in this great opportunity.

RADIO, NEWSPAPERS AND BOOKLETS ADVERTISE U. S. 1

This year the association has extended its territory and active work more than any other of its nine years of existence. It is reaching towns and states which have heretofore been inactive in the organization's work, with the determined intention of making it cover the entire system of U. S. No. 1 highway.

Harry M. Tachudy, who has been assigned by the Hotel John Marshall to act as promotion manager for the organization this year, and who was recently in Southern Pines, devoted most of last week to work in Richmond and began this week visiting towns along Highway 1 to enlist support for the organization's work. He expects to work the entire route from one end to the other, from Fort Kent, Maine, to Key West, Florida.
