INTERESTING COLLECTION OF STONES AT SCHOOL

Now on display in the Southern Pines' School laboratory are a number of interesting and beautiful stones. Collected by students during the summer months, these stones represent twenty-four different states and also Canada. There are petrified snails from Texas, sand crystals from South Dakota, rose stones from Kansas, and these are only a few of the articles on display. Perhaps one of the most interesting of the 275 stones is a piece of flexible stone, which, according to reports, is to be found only in the state of North Carolina. The public is extended a cordial invitation by Mr. Hunter, science teacher in the local high school, to come and see this varied collection.

The Week in Vass

The Presbyterian Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. R. G. Rosser on Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. B. M. Corbett as program leader. She was assisted by Mrs. Rosser, Mrs. W. D. McCraney and Mrs. N. N. McLean in presenting an interesting program on religious education. Mrs. C. A. Lawrence conducted the Bible study. A special offering for foreign missions was made, and at the close of the meeting the hostess served delicious refreshments.

Last Sunday was a day of Thanksgiving with the local Methodists and their pastor, the Rev. L. M. Hall, for at the beginning of the morning service the chairman of the board of stewards was able to report to the pastor that money was on hand to meet every financial obligation of the church year, which closes with the annual conference in Wilmington this week. In celebration of this "victory," the collection plates were given a rest and at the time for the regular offering the congregation stood and joined in singing "Praise God From Whom All-Blessing Flow." Mr. Hall expressed his appreciation of the fine spirit of cooperation shown by the congregation and of the faithfulness of the stewards.

"The King of Kings," a biblical picture, will be shown in the Vass-Lakeview school auditorium on this Friday evening, November 22, under the auspices of the Vass Baptist church. Mrs. W. E.
