ONE OF THE FIRST SCHOOLHOUSES

This schoolhouse was one of the first to be built outside of the coast towns in the Revolutionary days. It dates back to 1776 and now stands in the town of Gettysburg, Pa. It is complete in almost every detail, even to the ivy that clings to its walls.

Color films, for years the dream of motion pictures, have finally arrived, and the finished product as demonstrated in Paramount's all-Technicolor production of 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine,' the attraction at the Pinehurst Theatre, Monday, March 25th, matinee and night, far surpasses all the claims which ardent publicity men have been making for it. The producers have taken an immortal story, beloved by two generations; selected a superb cast, headed by Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda; and have added the magic of outdoor Technicolor photography, which is so lifelike, so natural and so perfect that one loses the sense of being in a theatre, but is constantly convinced that the action is really taking place before his eyes!

A thrice-welcomed team, Myrna Loy and Robert Montgomery, return to the screen in 'Petticoat Fever,' the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy, the attraction at the Pinehurst Theatre, Wednesday, March 25th, matinee and night. These two stars haven't been seen together since the memorable 'When Ladies Meet,' and on seeing the new picture, one wonders why, for here is certainly the outstanding comedy-romantic team of the talking screen.

'Thirteen Hours by Air,' the attraction at the Pinehurst Theatre, Friday, March 27th, matinee and night, is adapted from an original by Bogart Rogers and Frank Dazey, and is a story in which thrill action is the keynote. Practically all the action takes place aboard a speeding transcontinental passenger plane. Fred MacMurray, shares the featured roles with Joan Bennett and two of Paramount's promising junior players, Adrienne Marden and Bennie Bartlett, also have prominent parts.

'Freddie Bartholomew wears neither the long golden curls nor the plush suit associated with the character. The story follows the familiar adventures of the little American boy who became a nobleman and went to England to live in Dorincourt Castle with his grandfather, the irascible old Earl, who refuses to recognize the child's young mother, 'Dearest,' because his late son had married her against his wishes. How the little chap's love works a complete transformation in the gruff old fellow, is charmingly depicted. After many difficulties, 'Little Lord Fauntleroy's' right to the title is securely established.

Freddie Bartholomew and Dolores Costello Barrymore are co-starred in 'Little Lord Fauntleroy,' the attraction at the Southern Pines Theatre, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, March 23, 24, 25, with a Tuesday matinee. Hugh Walpole, distinguished novelist, who adapted the story to the screen, has adhered faithfully to the original, which is laid in the England and America of the '80's. The chief departure from tradition is in the appearance of Fauntleroy, for

The screen acquires another great star as 'Everybody's Old Man,' playing a return engagement at the Southern Pines Theatre, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, March 26, 27, 28, with a Saturday matinee, introduces Irvin S. Cobb's wise smile, slow Kentucky drawl, genial wit and all, as the newest of filmland's celebrities. Surrounded by a supporting cast that includes Rochelle Hudson, Johnny Downs, and Norman Foster, Cobb makes his leisurely way through this romance drama, uttering his inimitable quips and proving that headstrong youth is no match for the seasoned wisdom of his years. 'Everybody's Old Man' is based on an original story by Edga Franklin and tells of an old commercial tycoon who loses the lust for battle when his chief rival dies. In Europe he finds the son and daughter of his old foe and the sweetheart of his youth dissipating their inheritance. Contriving to become their guardian, he with them goes into competition with his own business being conducted by a very modern minded and efficient nephew, cutting conspirators who would loot his charges, he makes things so hot for the nephew that only a successful business and romantic merger each be the result. Irvin Cobb's simple naturalness of acting makes his role warmly alive. Also an added attraction, 'Our Gang' will be seen in 'The Pinch Singer.'
